Calvo to fill 3 area judicial posts

By Bill Winter
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Long after his election early this month to the Illinois Supreme Court, Horace L. Calvo remains in a bright spotlight —even though his travel out of the state in recent days has prevented direct contact between him and the public.

Often called a "people's judge," Calvo has in the past offered a simple philosophy that has earned him praise. "Each case must be judged on its own merit and no two are alike," he has said. That commonsense approach has been used frequently during many years of public service, and the reward will come Dec. 6 when the 61-year-old Calvo is seated at Springfield, maintaining the Democrats' 4-3 edge on the high court.

Calvo

His departure from the appellate court will coincide with a series of judicial events that will affect this area for many years to come:

•Departing the appellate bench, where he has served since 1987 on assignment by the Supreme Court, Calvo will leave an expanded judiciary that includes even more Democrats than in the past.

•Resigning as circuit judges, Calvo and new Appellate Judges Charles "Bill" Chapman and Philip J. Rarick will create three vacancies in the 3rd Circuit. Chapman and Rarick will be sworn in at Mount Vernon on Dec. 5.

•Democratic State Central Committeeman (21st District) Bruce Cook of Belleville is predicting that the election of Democrats Chapman, Rarick, Robert Howerton and Richard Goldenhersh will result in an appellate court more conservative than in the past on criminal matters and more liberal on civil issues. Among those continuing on the appellate bench is Republican Thomas Welch of Collinsville, Calvo's election opponent for the Supreme Court position.

•Due to his representation on the top state court for the 5th Judicial District and 3rd Judicial Circuit, Calvo will be allowed to recommend three new circuit judges to serve along with carryover judges and newly-elected Charles Romani Jr. and Paul Riley.

Riley and Romani will be sworn in at Edwardsville Dec. 5; the three vacancies may not be filled until January.

Tellor free but feeling pressure

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

MADISON — Ricky Tellor was busy looking for a job Monday.

Perhaps strangely so, after 7½ years in prison his main hope was that he would land a job that would coop him up for a month at a time.

Tellor, 35, who went to welding school while in prison, said from his father's home in Madison, "I would like to get a job with a barge line. I'd like to get out on the river for 30 days at a time."

Tellor was released Friday from the Vienna (Ill.) Correctional Center after serving 7½ years of a 20-year sentence for the June 1981 armed robbery of a Granite City liquor store. He was ordered freed Nov. 21 after a statement by a former girlfriend convinced authorities he had been elsewhere on the night of the robbery.

Linda Miller of Fairmont City told Don Bridick, a Madison County Sheriff's Department investigator, that she and Tellor had been together the night of June 12, 1981, when an armed, masked robber held up the J & J Liquor Store, 3112 Maryville Road. The robber held a gun to the head of a 14-year-old girl.

Tellor was convicted largely on the basis of a clerk's identification; no physical evidence linked him to the crime.

State's Attorney Dick Allen, who leaves office Thursday, recommended the sentence reduction on the basis of Miller's statement. Chief 3rd Circuit Criminal Judge Philip J. Rarick, who presided over Tellor's trial and sentenced him, ordered the Local man killed in crash

CALHOUN COUNTY — Monte Ritchie, 52, a crane operator at Granite City Steel, was killed Saturday and his wife, Doris, was injured in a single-car accident in Calhoun County.

A spokesman for the Illinois State Police said Doris Ritchie, 45, lost control of the car on County Road 1, 3½ miles south of Brussels, Ill., at about 7:30 p.m.

The car crossed the road, ran through a driveway and a yard and hit a tree on the passenger's side, where Mr. Ritchie was sitting.

He was pronounced dead at Jersey Community Hospital in Jerseyville about an hour later by Calhoun County Deputy Coroner Phil Gress.

Mrs. Ritchie was taken there also and later transferred to St Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City, where she was listed in satisfactory condition Monday.

VISIT WITH SANTA: Four-year-old Andrew Crider tells Santa Claus his wishes for Christmas on Monday afternoon while visiting Santa's Cabin at 19th Street and Edison Avenue. Santa will be at his cabin Mondays through Fridays from 4 to 8 p.m., Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Photos with Santa are available for $4. The Downtown Merchants Association and Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce are sponsoring Santa's stay here until Christmas Eve.

Grzywacz shooting for Bellcoff's job

MADISON — Alderman Ron Grzywacz hopes to step up to mayor next spring. He is the only mayoral candidate of three persons that have picked up election petitions so far, said Comptroller Rick Tutka.

Seven city offices are up for election next spring: mayor, city clerk, city treasurer and four aldermanic slots.

Facing re-election are Mayor John Bellcoff, Treasurer Fred Bathon, Clerk Bill Weidner and Aldermen George Amisch, Rich Asperger, Charles Rockett and Mike Vrabec.

GRANITE CITY — Candidates for the 11 open offices in the April election are starting to line up.

A township supervisor, mayor, city clerk, treasurer, assessor and seven aldermen will be elected.

Mayor Von Dee Cruse has picked up his petitions for re-election and Street Superintendent Mac Warfield also picked up petitions for mayor.

Incumbents Robert Stevens, city clerk, Gail Valle, city treasurer, and Darlene Laub, assessor, have all picked up petitions.

Of the seven wards, all but the 1st Ward have an aldermanic

NAMEOKI — Nine township offices will be open in the April 4 election and thus far those currently in office face little competition.

The township office reports that in addition to the present nine officials, only one other petition has been picked up. Helen Hawkins is seeking election to one of four trustee posts.

Village races open slowly

PONTOON — Petitions for the April 4, 1989, election have been obtained by incumbent trustees Bob Abel and Robert E. Vincent, both candidates with the New Political Party, and Jim Hill, who will file as an independent.

Abel, of the 4000 block of Breckenridge Lane, and Vincent, a Victoria Drive resident, are seeking re-election for four-year

House fire Monday causes estimated $15,000 damage

GRANITE CITY — The loss was estimated at $15,000 in a house fire reported at 10:35 p.m. Monday at the home of Phyllis Finazzo of the 3000 block of Marshall Avenue.

Firefighters remained at the scene for two hours and 25 minutes.

The fire originated in a utility room where clothes and rags apparently were left too close to the furnace, a fire department spokesman said.

Damage to the one-story frame structure was estimated at $5,000. Loss to contents was estimated at $10,000.

Few draw petitions in Venice

VENICE — Election petitions have been available almost a month for seven city offices and nine township offices that are up for grabs in the April election, but so far there has been little interest.

No one has picked up petitions for the city, where the offices of mayor, treasurer, city clerk and four aldermen will be decided.

"Around here we normally don't get started until January," a spokesman said.

In the township, which includes most of Madison and Venice, a supervisor, clerk, collector, assessor, highway commissioner and four trustees will be selected.

Supervisor Christ Pashoff will seek re-election. He has picked up his petitions, as have Madison businessmen Andy Economy and Jim Riskovsky, also seeking

Army housing called boost

New housing that will shelter up to 400 Army personnel here means a boost to the local economy, officials said at groundbreaking ceremonies last week at the Charles Melvin Price Support Center. "This is another significant initiative for this Army post," said Maj. Gen. Richard E. Stephenson, commander of the U.S. Army Aviation Systems Command in St. Louis. "Another 300 to 400 folks will be adding their voice to the community."

No Price submarine yet

The Navy has not yet named a missile-firing Trident submarine for the late Rep. Mel Price, who died in April. Congress made the request seven months ago in the form of a resolution. "I'm sure something will happen, but it hasn't happened yet," said Navy spokesman Lt. Brian Cullin.

Bishop Ryan to visit pope

Bishop Daniel Ryan of the Catholic Diocese of Springfield, which includes Granite City, will visit Pope John Paul in Rome on Dec. 3 through 10. Ryan will submit a four-year report on the state of the diocese. Concerns in the report include the high divorce rate in America and the decreasing number of men who become priests.

SIU forester defends using real trees for Christmas

A real Christmas tree can be as safe to use in the home as an artificial one, says a forester from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

"It's true. In fact, a real tree may be even more safe to use in the home because it can be much more tolerant to heat and flame than plastic or metallic versions," says Paul L. Roth, professor of forestry in SIUC's College of Agriculture.

Roth says gases from a flame-engulfed artificial tree can also be deadly.

Roth offers these tips to assure yourself of a high quality, longer-lasting tree.

•Buy the tree early. "For several reasons, early shopping is smarter," he said. But first, make sure the tree is locally grown, that is, grown in Illinois or adjoining states.

•Take care of it. Make a fresh one-inch cut upward from the base of the cut tree as soon as you buy it. This will allow the tree to absorb fresh water more readily. Resin on the tree often seals off new water ducts.

•Next, shave bark and some flesh off the sides of the tree in a three- or four-inch girdle above the base. Make sure that you check the water level daily. After the first shaving and cutting, the tree may need water more than once each day.

Storage — Roth says trees can be bought early and saved several weeks before displaying them without too much dehydration and needle loss. Immerse the base-cut tree in a few inches of water and place it away from wind and sunlight. When it's time to move the tree indoors, an inch or so should be trimmed from the stem again.

"In general, pines last longer than spruces or firs," says Roth. "The longer-needled species seem to hang on to needed moisture better. When checking out a tree, make sure the foliage is pliable and that needles don't shake off easily when the tree is tapped firmly on the ground."

Consumers can expect to pay $3 to $4 per foot this year for Christmas trees, Roth says.

"If prices are up slightly this year in some areas, it will most likely be due to higher shipping and handling rates. The summer drought should not affect this year's crop."

Official count gives Costello St. Clair Co.

Madison County voters continued to show a strong preference for Democratic candidates at the local level and, for the first time since 1976, they favored a Democratic presidential candidate when they went to the polls on Nov. 8.

Official vote tabulations showed an error in election officials' count for the 21st Congressional District race between Democrat Jerry Costello and Republican Robert Gaffner.

The correction gave Costello, who won with 52 percent of the vote, an additional 1,800 votes in St. Clair County, making Costello the winner in his home county.

Democrat Michael Dukakis took 54 percent of the vote in Madison County, receiving 54,175 votes to 44,907 for President-elect George Bush, who won in Illinois and 39 other states.

Not since Jimmy Carter was elected president in 1976 had a Democratic presidential candidate carried the county.

President Ronald Reagan carried Madison County twice, gathering 51 percent of the vote to defeat Carter in 1980 and receiving 54 percent of the vote to beat Walter Mondale in 1984.

Madison County Democratic Chairman Bill Harrison of Granite City said the results showed that many Democrats who voted for Reagan "came home" to the Democratic Party, at least in Madison County.

"They had a candidate at the top of the ticket they were excited about," Harrison said. He said a strong presidential candidate always helps the rest of the ticket.

The rest of the Democratic ticket, Harrison said, was one of the strongest in years, with good candidates from top to bottom.

Democrats swept all county-wide offices. The party retained its 25-4 majority on the Madison County Board, and local Democrats were elected to judgeships on the 5th District Appellate Court and Illinois Supreme Court.

The county also was a major factor in the re-election of Costello.

"There's no question it was a Democratic year locally," said Tom Long, county Republican chairman and an unsuccessful candidate for the 5th District Appellate Court.

"The going was tough, as it usually is for Republicans in Madison County," he said.

It is difficult to offset the strong Democratic advantage in straight-ticket voters, Long said.

This year, voters cast 25,926 straight Democratic ballots, compared to only 12,652 straight Republican ballots.

Long said Republican strategy must be "to keep doing well where we have done well and try to make some inroads among the straight-ticket voters.

"We run even or better than even with independent voters," he said. "We'll win when more people start looking at candidates on an individual basis.

"The taxpayers would be better-served with a two-party system (in Madison County)," Long said.

Dukakis was far from the leading vote-getter in the county. That honor went to Democrat Dallas Burke of Alton, unopposed for re-election as coroner. She received 75,895 votes.

Close behind were Democrat William R. Haine of Alton with 74,604 votes and Democrat Willard V. "Butch" Portell of Collinsville with 70,609 votes.

Haine was elected state's attorney and Portell was re-elected circuit court clerk. Neither had opposition.

Venice looks for answer to missing street signs

By MARY HENDERSON
Staff affiliate

VENICE — The City Council has begun making arrangements with a Missouri sign company to replace worn and stolen street signs.

The council is investigating new plastic street signs that are less likely to be taken by the aluminum scalpers believed responsible for other missing signs.

The council was told by a sign company representative during a recent meeting that many towns are now implementing the plastic signs because the high price of aluminum has led to theft of road signs, guardrails and storm sewer pipe by opportunistic thieves, who sell the signs for profit. Plastic signs can also be bent back into shape if damaged in some fashion, the council was told.

In other action councilman Victor Valentine expressed concern over some vacant houses on Calhoun Street. Valentine said that "the houses have been left open and ransacked. The windows have been knocked out." Now the buildings pose a health and safety problem in addition to being general eyesores, he said. The council agreed with Mayor Tyrone Echols' recommendation "to seek condemnation or sale, as the case may warrant."

The council also heard from Fire Chief Willie Dumas on the recent problems the Fire Department has been having with its two trucks. The pumpers have never been completely out of service, though one had a recent problem before a water pump was replaced. "Both trucks are now operational," Dumas said. "There have been quite a few problems with the trucks because both are getting so old. The newer of the two trucks is a 1968 model. The other is a 1962. We expect to have more problems as the trucks get older."

The council has contacted state Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, to try to obtain partial funds from the state to assist them in the purchase of a new truck.

Councilman Silver Franklin also made a motion that the council take action on purchasing new police cars. "The cars are in very bad shape," said Franklin. "This is a matter that needs to be taken care of immediately."

Treasurer J. Alan Gardener also brought to the council the problem of vacant cars on property. "If you do not live next to someone who has one of these vehicles in his yard, you are very fortunate," Gardener remarked. "These cars are more than an eyesore they are a danger to the community. Children play in them and may become trapped, and they attract rats and other animals."

The council determined that immediate action, including legal steps, would be taken in such instances.

Bi-State retires last of old fleet of buses

At 3:02 p.m. Nov. 25, the Bi-State Development Agency reached the end of an era as the last AM General bus in the fleet, bus No. 5350, completed its last trip.

It was a cause for rejoicing by passengers, operators and maintainers alike when all could say, "Farewell to the General." Some were even heard to add, "And good riddance."

The first of 240 AM General buses arrived at Bi-State on June 14, 1975, and the Generals were a mainstay of the fleet from that date until 1988. During that time they logged 42 million miles in Bi-State service.

The American Motors General Corp. of Detroit went out of business in 1979 after building more than 5,300 AM Generals for transit agencies throughout the United States. Many of the buses were plagued with problems, primarily of a structural nature, and were not the most reliable when it came to serving the public, a Bi-State spokesman said.

Retirement of the last Bi-State AM General was made possible by the arrival beginning May 27, 1988, of 57 new Metro Advanced Design buses which are now in service. These buses are spread throughout Bi-State's bus fleet in both Missouri and Illinois. They are all wheelchair-lift-equipped and have begun to establish a track record of reliability and comfort for the passenger, it was said Friday.

Paul Ballard, Bi-State deputy executive director of operations, said regading the AM Generals, "They set a standard for breakdowns and late departures at Bi-State that may never be equalled. This was one General that needed to be retired."

State police plan roadside safety checks in December

COLLINSVILLE — The Illinois State Police plan to conduct roadside safety checks in the District 11 five-county area during December.

The safety checks will be conducted during "p.m. and early a.m." hours and at locations which will provide the maximum opportunity for enforcement of alcohol-related driving violations, Sgt. David Jung said.

Federal highway safety funds administered by the Illinois Department of Transportation will be used to conduct the safety checks throughout the state.

Illinois businesses optimistic

Illinois business leaders are generally optimistic about business prospects for the state and nation in 1989, despite a few soft spots.

The annual business outlook survey of the 68-member board of directors of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce reflects general agreement that the nation's current economic expansion will continue well into 1989, along with strong improvement in the state's recovery.

"Bright spots include both basic manufacturing — which enjoys increased exports due to the dollar's condition — and the information industries that serve it," said Jay R. Vonachen, chairman of the board of the statewide business organization.

Vonachen, president of Vonachen Industrial Supplies Inc., Peoria, said the agricultural economy is also looking up.

The executives generally expect present levels of employment and inflation to continue through the new year, Vonachen added, with slower but continued growth ranging from 2 to 3 percent.

"Although there may be some softening in housing construction due to interest rate uncertainty, we see no recession on the horizon," Vonachen said.

He sees positive signals in the state's economy. "It appears to us that the previously-depressed areas continue to adjust and recover. The present stable tax environment is a plus, not only for existing businesses in Illinois, but also to others thinking about relocating here. The labor environment also appears to be substantially improved.

"In light of these favorable factors within Illinois, the favorable dollar, and the healthy markets outside of the state, we look for 1989 to be a continuation of solid gains made by Illinois businesses in 1988."

Indians sue Southwestern tourist bureau

Renewing their battle with the Southwestern Illinois Tourism and Convention Bureau, two American Indian groups sued the bureau Nov. 14 because it abruptly canceled an Indian dance festival scheduled for June 1987 at the Collinsville Jaycees Sports Complex.

The lawsuit, filed in St. Clair County Circuit Court, seeks $142,030 in compensatory dam ages plus attorney fees, Dale Besse, a Collinsville resident and spokesman for the two Indian groups, said.

Bill Ferris, chairman of the bureau, said he thought the issue was dead. "I'm surprised that it's coming back again. We've had no discussion about it."

Last year, the bureau had been handling the promotion of the three-day event and worked with the two St. Louis-based Indian groups — the American Indian Center and Three Rivers Drum — to plan the various activities of the festival, called Dance of the Nations.

But the Indian groups and Ron Presson, the bureau's president, disputed the amount of money that would be avail able for the event. Besse said they had been promised $20,000 from the bureau; Presson denied that and said Besse assured him that the Indian groups could raise $10,000 for the event.

After the controversy erupted, the bureau voted 4-0 to cancel the festival, which would have featured an estimated 600 American Indian dancers from across the country. The cancellation occurred one month before the scheduled event.

Last December, Richard Younge, an East St. Louis attorney representing the Indians, filed a $142,030 claim with the state's Court of Claims office against the bureau and the state's Office of Tourism, a division of the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs. The agency provides regional bureaus with matching funds for various promotional projects.

The state rejected the Indians' claim in July. Younge could not be reached for comment.

Despite the state's rejection of the claim, Besse said he still thinks the Indians will win the recently filed lawsuit.

"The way it looks, we should have no problem," he said.

About 30 Indian representatives put nine months of their time into planning the festival until it was canceled, Besse said. The suit seeks reimbursement of $105,000 for expertise, $27,291 for time, $2,020 for travel and $7,719 for miscellaneous expenses, he said.

Besse said it also damaged the reputation of the two Indian groups with other Indians, but added that no punitive damages are sought in the lawsuit.

Misnamed 'AIDS test' still useful

The following guest column is by Tony Miller, program coordinator of the Madison County AIDS Prevention Program based in Granite City.

Misnamed the AIDS test, the HIV antibody test was first used to test donated blood for infection with HIV in March 1985.

Since then, it has also been used to test individuals who may have been exposed to the virus that causes AIDS, through high risk behaviors.

These behaviors include: sexual intercourse with an intravenous drug user, hemophiliac, bisexual man, someone who has multiple sex partners (this means more than one different partner a year), or someone who is infected with HIV.

Sharing intravenous drug needles is also a high risk behavior.

Those who have engaged in any of these behaviors over the past 10 years have reason to suspect they may have been exposed to the Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV).

The high risk behaviors are activities in which millions of people have engaged.

Some of these are unconcerned about infection, confident that they haven't been infected, and are able not to worry about becoming ill.

These confident people have changed their behavior to eliminate the chances of their becoming infected, or reinfected, avoiding those high risk behaviors in which they have engaged in the past. One of these people recently stated his argument for not being tested:

"I wouldn't do anything different than I am right now, if I took the test and found I was infected — except, perhaps, worry myself to death about when I would get sick."

Others who have engaged in high risk behaviors are less able to remain calm, and change their behavior to keep themselves safe. I am convinced these are the people who would benefit from getting counseled and tested for exposure to HIV.

Once the decision to be tested is made, it is important to be careful about the choice of the testing site.

We're all aware of the discrimination surrounding AIDS and HIV infection. Any medical doctor can order the test. However, doctors must keep records, and if the doctor orders an HIV test, it will be noted in the medical records along with the results.

It could have negative repercussions for the patient in regard to health/life insurance and employment, if this "confidential" information should become known.

The Illinois Department of Public Health has a statewide program of confidential and anonymous counseling and testing. Locally, the number is 1-800-345-2383.

Anyone utilizing this service, for which there is no charge, is given a code number as their identification. At no time during the testing process are individuals asked their names.

Knowing our antibody status, whether we've been infected or not, is important.

If individuals test negative after more than three months since their last potential exposure, they can be confident they are not infected. Further worry can then be attributed to other causes, like guilt or anxiety about sex, and can be dealt with as such.

The AIDS test is neither a test for AIDS nor a death sentence for those who test positive. Those who test positive for antibodies to HIV, need to find out what they can do to increase their chances of remaining symptom free.

Medical researchers and practitioners are making great strides in treating AIDS related illnesses to prolong the lives of infected individuals and those who have suffered some damage to their immune systems.

It is better to know as much as we can about our health, so we can make the best adjustments possible for our well-being and that of those we love.

Heredity and environment factors in child's weight

Which is more important in determining whether a child will be obese — genetics or environment?

That's a hard question to answer for children growing up with their biological parents; children who inherit their parents' genes may also learn their eating habits from them.

But researchers recently took a look at adults who had been adopted as children and found that, as far as obesity was concerned, the adoptees resembled their biological parents more closely than they did the families who had raised them.

Clearly, genetics is a very important factor in predicting how fat a person will be, health authorities say.

This doesn't mean that a child is "home free" if his or her parents are not heavy. Nor does it necessarily mean that a child who inherits a tendency to obesity is bound to be obese.

Environment — that is, eating habits, activity levels, anything besides genetics that influences weight — is still a very important consideration.

People who have inherited a tendency to fatness shouldn't give up and bow to the "inevitable." They may just need to work a little harder at maintaining a lower weight.

Few health problems are attributable only to genetics or only to environment. Generally, it is a combination of the two factors that determines who will contract a disease or develop a problem.

Biology is not, at least in the case of obesity, destiny, experts conclude. But genetics may help predict which children may have a tendency to gain too much weight, so that problems can be "headed off at the pass" with preventive measures.

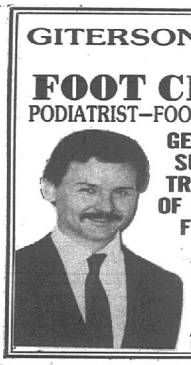

If a child's biological parents are obese, "baby fat" should not be taken too lightly for too many years. Children who become heavy in childhood have a much harder time losing weight, and keeping it off, later in life than do people who gain weight in adulthood.

One theory explaining this is that when children are overweight, they have too many fat cells.

The excess number of fat cells that an overweight child develops tends to stay with the youngster into adulthood.

Changes in OB Department focus on wants of the family

The Obstetrics Department at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, like the medical center itself, has undergone a lot of changes over the years, and further changes are in the near future.

As a department, OB typifies the SEMC slogan, modern technology delivered with old-fashioned kindness.

The department offers the latest in modern technology in a home-like atmosphere. The goal is to provide the best medical care but focus on the needs and wants of the family.

"A lot of changes have been made since I was here 18 years ago. It is a lot nicer for me, as a new mother again," said Glenda Wilson about the SEMC OB Department.

Wilson, who lives in Granite City, had children at SEMC 22 and 18 years ago. On Aug. 16, she made it three, with a daughter, Janelle Leigh.

"We see the birth of a baby as a family experience," said Pat Schrader, R.N.C., OB supervisor. "The new mothers usually aren't sick. They are experiencing a natural function. We try to offer them all the support of their families, plus the safety of the medical center.

"Continuing education is really stressed with our personnel. They participate in programs and seminars constantly, so we can offer the most up-to-date care."

"The selling point of the OB to me is the outstanding care that is available. The ancillary or extra services that may be needed if complications arise are outstanding for an institution the size of SEMC," said Dr. Alan Skirball, OB/GYN. "Of course, people want the birthing rooms and individual labor rooms with nice wallpaper."

"It is much nicer than it was," Wilson said. "They have redecorated. I would like to back a truck up and take all the furniture in the solarium at the end of the hall home with me, I have been shopping for new furniture for my living room and that is exactly what I've been looking for."

The solarium was designed to provide a place for families to visit with the new mother and baby in a comfortable atmosphere. The furniture is soft and upholstered in soft hues of blue, rose and yellow. It is available any time to meet the needs of the family.

"We also use the solarium for family visits with the babies who must stay in the medical center after their mothers go home. It provides a home-like atmosphere for the family and baby to enjoy each other, and for the bonding process to occur," said Schrader.

Stork dinners are usually served in the solarium. These are candlelight steak dinners new parents share before mother and baby are discharged.

"Entire families have enjoyed the stork dinner in the solarium, mother and father dining on steak and the children eating carried-in burgers and fries. Everyone is happy. We wanted to make it a comfortable, family type room. I think we succeeded," Schrader said.

The labor rooms and special birthing room also reflect the SEMC emphasis on family and a comfortable environment. The labor rooms feature soft, comforting colors. A television is available if the family wishes.

The birthing room resembles a room at home. Decorated with complementing soft blue wallpaper and a chair rail, it includes a recliner for the new father to rest in, a television and a telephone.

"The telephone allows the new mother, shortly after the birth, the opportunity to call someone who couldn't be there and describe the baby while it is in her arms. She can tell the person about every wrinkle and dimple, with the baby all warm and soft in her arms," Schrader said.

"What we are seeing in the birthing rooms and labor rooms is a change in the times. People want these home-type rooms," Dr. Skirball said.

"It seems silly to me. A hundred years ago, you had to give birth at home. Now, we have all these medical advances, better treatment and better care in a medical center, and it has to look like a home, too.

"It is definitely more psychologically comforting to the women to be in a home-like atmosphere and safer to actually be in a medical center with good care available."

The attention to the comfort of mother and baby extends to the mother moves to her room.

"If we have the room, we will put each mother in a room by herself. Flexibility is our ideal," Schrader said.

"The mothers get to design their own experience with their baby, as much as possible. If she wants the baby to room in 24 hours a day, we'll try to do that. If she only wants to see the baby at feeding time, we'll do that.

"Some mothers want to leave the medical center as soon as possible. Some would like to stay longer. We try to work with them and their physician for a happy compromise," Schrader said. "This is something very special that may only happen once in a woman's life. You can't go back and fix it. We want it to be what she wants and is prepared for."

Pack 28 Cubs hold celebration

Cub Pack 28, sponsored by the Parkview School PTA, held its November meeting, with Thanksgiving as a theme.

A flag ceremony was conducted by Jeff Hoenig and Nicholas Thomas, both of Den 5, and the group was welcomed by Cubmaster Pat Foote, who announced that Pati Thomas was the recipient of the District Award of Merit for the Uniwah District.

Foote presented the Quality Unit and Summertime Pack Award streamers to the pack. Boys from Den 1 and Den 3 placed the ribbons on the pack flag.

Jean Whitehead, Jeremy Guiterrez and Matthew Whitehead received patches for hiking the Lincoln Heritage Trail.

Donnie Baker was presented a one-year service star and a one-year perfect attendance pin.

Chris Markovich received a two-year service star and a two-year perfect attendance bar.

Jeremy Guiterrez, Joey Bryd, Matt Whitehead, John Kelly, Jeff Klee and Mark Thomas also received one-year perfect attendance pins.

Receiving Cub Scout Physical Fitness Sports pins for soccer and bowling were Mark and Nicholas Thomas.

Pati Thomas and Shirley Bryd received sports pins for bowling, and sports letters went to Mark and Nicholas Thomas and Joey Bryd.

Led by Robin Macios and Robin Stone, Den 1 Cubs Justin Stone, Joshua Macios, Jason Lemler, Tim Shelton, Mitchell Goldenberg, Jonas Cathey, Christopher Singleton, Steven Schroeder and Philip Huniak sang "Over the River." Gail Wyatt's Den 3 Cubs Jason Kaminski, Jeffrey Klee, Matt Whitehead and Mark Thomas sang "Bring Back My Turkey to Me."

"Frontier Thanksgiving," an audience participation verse, was led by Den 5 Cubs Jeff Hoenig, Jeff Logsdon, Jeremy Guiterrez and Ricky Whitehead.

Colors were retired by Den 3.

The next meeting will be Dec. 22, with a visit from Santa Claus.

On Nov. 19, Cubs collected food from homes where they distributed bags for "Scouting for Food." The boys will perform a flag ceremony on Dec. 20 for Parkview School PTA.

Party given

A sixth birthday party was held for Jessica Duffield, Granite City, on Nov. 19.

The theme was "Barbie."

Several games were played, and cake and ice cream were served to her guests.

Attending the party were: Daisy Girl Scouts Madelyne Dilallo, Julie Whittington, Angela Homyer, Jennifer Ambuehl, Amanda McCaslin, Jama Fabry, Laura Canada and Wilma Christian.

Other guests attending were Tracy McGowan, Stacy Hearn, Megan Riggs and Kari Shupp.

Special guests were her brother, Jarrod Duffield, and Shawn McCaslin.

Brenda Dilallo and Sheri McCaslin helped Jessica's parents, Dave and Eileen Duffield, give the party at their home.

Illinois, Israel to expand trade

Illinois and Israel will embark on a program designed to stimulate projects of mutual economic benefit through enhanced trade, technology development and increased tourism.

Formal signing of an Illinois-Israel initiative took place at ceremonies this fall at the State of Illinois Center, Chicago.

Gov. James R. Thompson was joined by Gabriel Levy, Israel's economic minister to North America, in signing the memorandum of intent, creating the Illinois-Israel Initiative.

Lt. Gov. George H. Ryan, chairman of the Illinois Export Council, and Uri Bar-Ner, Israel's consul general to the Midwest, also signed the document.

"By entering into this agreement, Illinois joins a growing list of sister states which have realized the potential for export development offered by the Israeli market. These initiatives are a result of the establishment of the United States-Israel Free Trade Area Agreement (FTA), signed in September 1985," the governor said.

"We look forward to strengthening those ties as the years progress."

The Illinois Export Council, composed of 19 members of Illinois' business and labor community, directed Ryan to pursue this agreement, working through the Chicago-based American-Israel Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

"Our two states seek a cooperative relationship designed to increase the exchange of goods and services," said Ryan. "Sound, strategic planning requires that Illinois pursue this promising market. The primary objective of this undertaking is to promote projects of mutual economic benefit."

Illinois and Israel will begin exploring arrangements and establish working committees between the appropriate entities of the two governments and between academic institutions.

Since Israel enjoys duty-free export to the European Economic Community (EEC), the U.S.-Israel FTA Agreement is said to offer unique opportunities to American companies seeking to enter the European market. By exporting to Israel, and then adding 35 percent value to their product, U.S. firms can export to Europe duty-free.

The U.S.-Israel FTA Agreement will eliminate all custom duties and most non-tariff barriers by 1995. It is the first agreement of its kind entered into by the United States — and the first and only to which Israel is a party — that includes all goods. It is also the first trade agreement ever negotiated to explicitly cover a full range of trade in services.

The United States is Israel's largest single trading partner, although trade with the EEC is larger overall. Israel purchases more than $2.5 billion annually from the United States, with total trade between the two countries valued at $5.9 billion, a 23 percent increase from 1986.

The U.S. Department of Commerce estimates that 40,000-50,000 jobs are currently generated by exports to Israel.

"I am pleased that after more than a year of negotiations we have reached this historic agreement," said Ryan. "The Illinois Export Council is fulfilling its mission to develop programs designed to enhance the international export of Illinois goods and services."

Political drums loud in Metro East

By Martin Richter

For George Bush and Michael Dukakis, the campaign for the White House was a whirlwind of planes, trains and automobiles, whisking them to political appearances in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles...and Metro East.

With Missouri and Illinois crucial swing states in the election, both Republicans and Democrats emphasized this bi-state metropolitan area in the 1988 campaign. In winning 40 states and the presidency, Bush edged Dukakis in both Illinois and Missouri.

Both presidential candidates visited Metro East, and additional visitors included Kitty Dukakis, Joe Kennedy and George Bush's older brother, Prescott. St. Louis also was visited by the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, Lloyd Bentsen.

"I can't remember a political campaign when we haven't had the candidates come here," Democratic State Central Committeeman Bruce Cook, 21st Illinois District, said. "They have a plaque at the courthouse where John F. Kennedy stood and gave a speech.

"St. Clair is a key county as far as Illinois goes," Cook said. "Democrats must come here. If there is a large vote here, traditionally the election goes well for them, so they get out and beat the drums."

Wayne Ault, a political science instructor at Belleville Area College, said there are several reasons the St. Louis area in general, and Metro East in particular, are considered important in national campaigns.

He said the bi-state area offers a large population of voters easily reached by the St. Louis television market, and it is a key area in securing Illinois and Missouri's electoral votes.

Also, the area holds a high concentration of so-called "Reagan Democrats" — those Democrats who were persuaded to jump tickets and vote for Ronald Reagan. They were considered a key group in the 1988 election; many defected to Dukakis, but many supported President-elect Bush.

Dave Sandor, a campaign spokesman for George Bush, Dan Quayle '88 in Washington, D.C., said area Reagan Democrats and Democrats in the tradition of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry Truman and John F. Kennedy, not Dukakis, and are particularly receptive to Republican ideas.

"This is an area where the vice president's message really strikes home," he said a short time before the election.

Who's afraid...? American wolves

By Mary Brase
Staff affiliate

Inside the dark, cluttered recesses of St. Louis's Science Center, a pack of gray wolves leans precariously against a curved wall, frozen in the chase.

They may not be as big and bad as Little Red Riding Hood remembers, but the gaping teeth and piercing eyes get attention, if not respect, even before technicians nudge the 6 feet of rigid fur into designated spots around a fresh kill.

The diorama, the heart of the show, is like the old, wild days in Texas or Louisiana, where red wolves once roamed freely and sent regular chills as they howled among the cowboys driving the herds.

Relentless hunting and loss of the wilderness have winnowed the American pack down to a few survivors in Minnesota and into Canada, where grey slips of thick fur warily streak occasionally through the moonlit timber.

In St. Louis, the wolves come only in shipping crates labeled "This End Up."

One by one, scientists carefully gathered the assortment from road kills and poachers the last five years. The idea is to mount and pose the beast in typical scenes — to make a new case for canis lupus.

The result is a first-class traveling show, organized by the Science Museum of Minnesota. It has opened for a three-month visit in St. Louis.

Wolves and Humans: Coexistence, Competition and Conflict is so full of the history and folklore and art and science of the wolf, it fills the entire first floor gallery at the Forest Park center (a first) and promises to commandeer parts of the park for a radio-controlled wolf hunt.

"Wolves are more like humans than we know," said John Hensley, humanities and technology curator at the St. Louis Center. He sees wolves, like snakes, as victims of bad press, even in Biblical times.

It was Matthew who warned of false prophets as wolves in sheep's clothing, the exhibit notes.

"They kill sheep, but not as many as is believed," the curator said, defending the scene.

Wolves dine mainly on the old and easily caught deer and moose, and actually help keep the herds healthy, he said.

"They are highly social creatures, much like human beings," said Hensley.

The relationship and the similarities are major reasons for the display.

As the wild ancestor of all dogs, including foxes and coyotes, the wolf has learned to communicate and cooperate in fairly complicated ways to survive, he said.

It's no accident that a wolf's howl — broadcasting the site of a kill — can be heard for miles through a clear winter night.

"They howl, but not necessarily when the moon is full or when they need a mate," Hensley said.

Scientists think the howl may be one of self confidence, warning others to stay away.

"He's in charge and he knows it," said Hensley.

Pups practicing the skill sometimes flip over backwards in their enthusiasm, scientists say.

Visitors will have a chance to try their own version in a special howling booth set up with an electronic wolf that promises to answer if he recognizes the sound.

Visitors also will find out why the wolf is the bad guy in the Three Little Pigs or how Mowgli, the jungle boy, grew up as part of the pack.

The wolf as the heavy, stemming from legends of men turning into werewolves or The Wolf Man of the movies, comes from the European culture, said Hensley.

Native American Indians still consider the wolf a brother and co-exist with the giant predator, giving rise to the wolf packs of the Cub Scouts and their corresponding social organization, Hensley explained.

Hitler was fascinated by wolves, perhaps because Adolf is a contraction of Edelwolf or noble wolf. His submarines fought in wolf packs and his headquarters became the Wolf's Lair.

A computer matches wits with the wolf, giving visitors a chance to bring down the prey against the same odds the wolf faces.

Home invasion alleged

MADISON — Steven Denton Bernstein, 30, 1000 block of McCambridge Avenue, Madison, remained in the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville on Nov. 16 in lieu of $100,000 bond on charges of home invasion, aggravated assault, criminal trespass and violation of an order of protection.

A felony information alleging home invasion was issued through the Madison County State's Attorney's Office following an incident Nov. 6 at the home of Barbara E. Eubanks and Robert L. Burgess in the 1000 block of McCambridge.

Bernstein went to the address, where he threatened Burgess and Eubanks, it was alleged.

The suspect left but then returned and he and Burgess were scuffling when police arrived.

Eubanks and Burgess were watching television when they heard suspicious noises outside and then found the telephone line was dead.

Burgess told Eubanks to pound on the door and yell to alert neighbors and then to lock herself in a bathroom, he said.

Bernstein broke a picture window and came through the window holding a piece of pipe, Burgess alleged.

The suspect allegedly swung the pipe at Burgess several times before the scuffle ensued and police officers arrived.

Bernstein sustained a laceration to the back of his head. The injury happened when he entered the window, he told police.

Campbell Ambulance was called and personnel recommended the cut receive medical attention.

Bernstein reportedly declined treatment.

Police alleged telephone and cable television lines leading into the home had been sliced. A large piece of galvanized pipe was recovered at the home.

St. Clair expanding jail capacity to 318

By Rick Arnold

BELLEVILLE — Though the St. Clair County Jail will have plenty of space for inmates with its new addition, construction of the addition caused some overcrowding, according to an inspection report by the Illinois Department of Corrections.

"Due to construction and remodeling, 38 detainees were sleeping in areas not normally used as permanent housing," detention consultant Ronnie Wells wrote in his report.

Wells said 18 inmates were sleeping in two large recreation rooms, and 12 inmates were sleeping in booking room cells.

The just-completed addition houses 60 inmates, in addition to containing a prisoner visitation area, a library and an indoor recreation area, said Sheriff Mearl Justus.

The addition was dedicated at ceremonies in late October.

Justus said the project cost $2.7 million. Funding came through a $2 million grant from the U.S. marshal's office, and a reimbursement program with the federal government; the county will get $45 a day for each federal prisoner staying at the jail.

Justus said the addition will eliminate the overcrowding mentioned in Wells' report. Corrections officials are also confident the problems will soon be corrected; they plan to inspect the jail again in December.

"I believe it is reasonable to conclude that despite the efficient performance of you and your staff, your facility's violations are directly related to overcrowding," wrote Gerald O. Long, deputy director, Bureau of Inspections and Audits, in a letter to Justus.

With the addition and the conversion of the former library and recreation area into a 14-bed dormitory, the jail's maximum capacity will increase from 244 to 318.

Professor convicted for child porn

David Frank Duncan, 41, Carbondale, was found guilty by a jury of nine men and three women of knowingly receiving photographs depicting minors engaging in sexually explicit conduct Frederick J. Hess, United States attorney for the Southern District of Illinois, announced.

The verdict was returned Nov. 9.

Duncan, who is a professor at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale and holds a doctor of philosophy degree, placed an order for the sexually explicit photographs with a "dummy" organization called "Produit Outaouis" located in Canada. The group had been set up by the United States Customs Service, according to evidence at the trial.

Upon receipt of the order, Customs officials sent 48 photographs to Duncan at his address in Carbondale after obtaining a search warrant.

After delivering the photographs, the Customs officials executed the search warrant and found, in addition to the photographs Duncan had ordered from them, approximately 50 magazines, 200 photographs and two videotapes depicting child pornography.

Sentencing in the case is set for Jan. 9 in Benton, Ill.

Duncan faces a possible fine of $250,000 and a possible term of imprisonment of up to five years.

Granite City

Retail theft charged, probation warrant served

Patricia Jean Bamford, 32, 2100 block of Edison Avenue, was booked on a charge of retail theft following a Nov. 17 incident at K mart, 3655 Nameoki Road. She also was served with a warrant for alleged probation violation on an original charge of unlawful delivery of cannabis.

Bamford appeared in the Granite City court on Nov. 18. She was fined $100 and received one year's court supervision on the retail theft charge. She was released Nov. 19 after posting $502 bail.

$700 video camera gone

Bryan Warren, 2000 block of Benton Street, said a burglar entered his truck while it was parked at the Tip Top Tavern lot, 1700 block of State Street, and stole a video camera valued at $700 and a radar detector worth $310.

Speakers, cash taken

Two stereo speakers valued at $160, eight records and $60 were taken in a burglary at the home of Milburn Wright, 2500 block of Cleveland Boulevard, he reported Nov. 15. Entry into the house was gained through a side door.

$190 floor jack missing

A $190 floor jack loaned by Joe Lemaster, 2300 block of Wilson Avenue, to Gary Rainwater, who lives in the 2400 block of Wilson, was missing from a shed at the Rainwater home, Lemaster reported Nov. 15.

Shots damage bank unit

George W. McIlroy reported Nov. 20 that someone had shot a pellet gun or BB-gun at the Central Bank Total Teller, 3100 Maryville road. A 41x78-inch plate glass window valued at $400 was damaged and a 40x16-inch smoked glass door valued at $450 was destroyed.

Vandal damages church

A rock-throwing vandal broke three windows at the rear of Concordia Lutheran Church, 2300 block of Grand Avenue, Nov. 22.

Battery by man alleged

Steven David Watkins, 38, of the 2400 block of Terminal Avenue, was arrested Nov. 19 on an allegation of battery. It was contended he slapped, scratched and pulled the hair of a 14-year-old boy.

Burglar takes pennies

Gerald Buettner, of the 100 block of Briarhaven, reported the burglary Nov. 19 of a half jar of pennies and five silver dollars, valued at a total of $15, and a boat battery from his home.

Phone taken from car

Ron Dunnavant, 1200 block of 22nd Street, reported Nov. 19 that a burglar had broken into his car and taken a portable phone valued at $1,475. The burglar also slashed both tires on the right side of the car.

Office ransacked; cash register, machines looted

Burglars forced a rear door and got into Bruno D's Lounge in the 1800 block of Cleveland Boulevard, Nov. 21. The intruders ransacked the office and pried open the cash register and game machines.

An employee reported finding the rear door open when she came to work. Band equipment had been moved near the door. The cash register and coin boxes on the machines were damaged and the contents taken.

Auto stereo stolen

William Cauble, 2900 block of Myrtle Avenue, reported Nov. 20 that a burglar had broken into his car and taken a car stereo valued at $300, a power booster valued at $150 and a collector's Star Trek Phazer valued at $50.

Burglar breaks door

Marcia D. Hollis, 2500 block of Center Street, arrived home and found a door kicked in and the door frame broken Nov. 22. Dresser drawers had been searched and a stereo receiver was missing.

Stolen car recovered

Jim Brawley, 1600 block of Clark Avenue, reported his 1979 Chevrolet was stolen from the 2600 block of State Street, where he left it parked for about 40 minutes at 12:45 a.m. Nov. 22. The vehicle was found intact at 1:15 a.m. Nov. 22, parked at Michigan Avenue and 27th Street.

Receiver, coins gone

An AM-FM receiver with a cassette player and assorted coins were taken in a burglary at the home of Larens Aleksandrian, 2600 block of Center Street, he reported Nov. 22. The intruder, who pried a board off a garage door to get inside the home, also searched furniture in a bedroom.

Wallet gone from center

A black leather trifold wallet containing $200, credit cards and papers was stolen from a locker at the Renaissance Health Center, 3900 block of Stearns Avenue, Kent Splaingard, 2200 block of Waterman Avenue, reported Nov. 22.

Car stranded near tracks

Receiving a report of a vehicle stranded on or near the railroad tracks between West 20th and 22nd streets at 11:45 p.m. Nov. 18, an officer found a 1976 Firebird on the Conrail Railroad easement about 100 yards south of 22nd Street.

William Carl Burnes, 26, 2200 block of Washington Avenue, the driver, said a train was blocking the 22nd Street rail crossing and, in an attempt to avoid the train, he drove on what he thought was a road along the tracks.

The car, however, became mired down in loose gravel and other material which separates the tracks and Burnes was unable to free the vehicle. It was buried to the axles.

Police summoned a tow truck, but the driver was unable to aid the stranded motorist due to the distance from the roadway and other conditions.

A Terminal Railroad agent at the scene determined that trains could safely move through the area and the auto was secured and left there.

Burnes and a passenger in the car, David Ellis Mucho, 20, 2400 block of Adams Street, were both charged with criminal trespass to property on a complaint signed by a Conrail special agent.

Two injured in head-on crash

GRANITE CITY — Two drivers were injured at 5:50 p.m. Monday in a head-on collision on Madison Avenue just north of 25th Street.

Larry W. Kendall, 31, of the 2100 block of Nevada Avenue said he was driving his pickup truck north when a motorist traveling in the same direction in an adjacent lane abruptly changed lanes, causing Kendall to veer left into the southbound lanes.

At that point, Kendall's pickup and a southbound car operated by Johanna R. Terry, 17, of the 3200 block of Maryville Road, collided.

Kendall was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was in stable condition Tuesday.

Terry also was transported by ambulance to SEMC and was treated and released.

The vehicle that forced Kendall to move into the southbound lanes was described by a witness as a light green Oldsmobile. There was no contact between Kendall's truck and the Oldsmobile.

Candidates for consideration as circuit judges include Associate Judges Edward C. Ferguson (chief associate judge) and Daniel J. Stack, both of Highland (Stack is a former local resident), and three Edwardsville residents, Michael Meehan, Wendell Durr and Nicholas G. Byron (a former Madison County state's attorney).

Lawyers asking to be considered include Gerald J. McGivern of Edwardsville, Lawrence J. Keshner and Phillip J. Kardis, both of Alton, and Glenn E. Bradford of Glen Carbon.

•Since Riley was a circuit judge by appointment but Romani was an associate judge, there will be at least one associate vacancy, plus others if some of the current associate judges are named to circuit judge vacancies.

To tide the circuit over in December and January, Chief Circuit Judge Paul J. O'Neill is trying to obtain the temporary loan of two circuit judges from elsewhere in Illinois.

The busy whirl of activity centering around him this year is nothing new for Judge Calvo.

A World War II veteran (Army Air Corps, European duty), he has always had a relatively high public profile. Associates in the Quad City area recall when:

•Calvo once ran a close but losing race for city judge of Granite City.

•He operated a busy law office in Granite City for more than 19 years, representing among other clients District 34 of the United Steelworkers of America and serving as president of the Tri-City Bar Association and president of the former Granite City Democratic Club.

•For eight years, 1960-68, he was a special assistant Illinois attorney-general.

•Calvo served four terms as an Illinois state representative from the 56th District, including membership on the Judiciary Committee.

•He left the Illinois House in 1975 to become a circuit judge and was elected to the board of directors of the Illinois Judges' Association.

•While serving as chief circuit judge in 1980, he ran unsuccessfully for appellate judge.

•Calvo set the stage for this year's Supreme Court campaign by becoming familiar with the 37-county 5th District — withdrawing from his duties at Edwardsville to gain experience at the appellate level.

•He won the hard-fought Supreme Court primary and general election despite the focusing of attention on his lack of a law degree. A grandfather several times over, he was "grandfathered" in with full eligibility because he was admitted to the practice of law on May 24, 1956, before a college degree was a requirement. He attended law school for four years.

Now a resident of Glen Carbon, Calvo grew up in Mount Sterling, Ill.

On the Illinois Supreme Court, he ironically replaces Justice Joseph Cunningham, formerly the chief 20th Circuit judge. The Supreme Court seat was held for 16 years by Justice Joseph Goldenhersh, a Belleville Democrat who retired due to ill health earlier this year.

On the state court, Calvo is likely to face a wide range of issues, including reapportionment.

The Supreme Court often has been called on to resolve impasses over Congressional boundaries; such a redistricting task might arise again after the 1990 census.

Obituaries

Jackson

Harry E. Jackson, 86, of Granite City died at 10:34 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 27, 1988, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. He had been hospitalized since Nov. 3.

Born Jan. 20, 1947, in Baltimore, Md., he lived in Granite City for 18 years. Mr. Medlin had worked for 18 years as a switchman/conductor for the Alton & Southern Railroad and was an Air Force veteran.

Survivors include his wife, Ann (Vabill) Medlin; one son, Shane Medlin, Granite City; one daughter, Mecala Medlin, Granite City; one brother, Larry Medlin, Glen Carbon; and one sister, Mrs. Edward (Peggy) Barrett, Edwardsville.

Visitation was held Monday at Thomas Memorial Mortuary, where funeral services were conducted Tuesday by the Rev. Mike Van Britson. Burial was at Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville.

Monte Ritchie

Ritchie

Monte Eugene Ritchie, 52, of Granite City died from injuries sustained in an automobile accident Saturday, Nov. 26, 1988. He was pronounced dead at Jersey Community Hospital in Jerseyville by Calhoun County Deputy Coroner Phil Gress. Additional information appears in a story elsewhere in today's issue.

Mr. Ritchie was born June 18, 1936, in Granite City and was a lifelong resident. A Navy veteran, he was employed as a crane operator for Granite City Steel and was a member of Moose Lodge 272, Eagles Aerie 1126 and the American Association of Retired Persons.

Preceding him in death was his first wife, Geraldine D. (Thayer) Ritchie.

Survivors include his wife, Doris Kay (Haymaker) Ritchie; three sons, Daniel and Jody Ritchie, both of Granite City, and Monte C. Ritchie, Bakersfield, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Arthur (Cheryl) Eisler and Mrs. Curtis (Janice) Howland, both of Granite City; one brother, Billy Ritchie, Litchfield; three sisters, Mrs. Darrell (Nancy) Hamilton, Mitchell, Mrs. Joseph (Cleo) Novak, Gillespie, and Mrs. Maris (Deborah) Dal-Pozzo, Staunton; and four grandchildren.

Visitation will be held Thursday from 5 to 9 p.m. at Irwin Chapel for Funerals, 2801 Madison Ave., where funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a.m., with the Rev. Harold Maynard officiating. Burial will follow at Lake View Memorial Gardens, Belleville. Memorials may be made to the American Cancer Society.

Scarborough

Inez (Lenza) Scarborough, 92, formerly of Granite City, died at 8:46 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 9, 1988, at Sunshine Manor Nursing Home, Carlinville.

Mrs. Scarborough was born Feb. 5, 1896, in Spring Valley.

Preceding her in death was her husband, Charles Scarborough, a former owner of Shorty's Tavern, Granite City.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Mary Alcini, Carlinville, and two sisters, Mrs. Vince (Meda) Pellagrini of Vallejo, Calif., and Mrs. Sofie Muzzarelli of Cherry, Ill.

Funeral services were held at the Heinz Funeral Home, Carlinville, and burial was at Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville, Monsignor Toliusis officiating.

Bessie Butler

Butler

Bessie E. Butler, 79, formerly of Granite City, died Wednesday, Nov. 23, 1988, in San Diego, Calif.

She lived in Granite City for 40 years prior to moving to California in 1963 and had been employed by General Steel Castings and National Enameling & Stamping Co.

Preceding her in death was her husband, Harry J. Butler, who died in 1955.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Thomas (Margaret Lauveta) Scott of Granite City and Mrs. Andy (Lois Charlene) Bosh of National City, Calif.; one sister, Mrs. Pearl Green of Madison; one granddaughter, three great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandsons, all of California.

terms on the Village Board of Trustees. Hill, who resides on Iris Avenue, also is seeking a four-year term as trustee.

The terms of incumbent trustees Don Rea and Carl Hackney likewise will expire next April.

Rea's seat is for four years and Hackney's carries a two-year term.

Hackney was appointed to the board Aug. 11, 1987, to fill the unexpired term of Keith Biggs. Biggs resigned in July 1987.

Both Hackney and Rea are expected to file for re-election, a village official said.

Petitions are available Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the Village Hall, 3910 Illinois 111. Filing starts Jan. 16 and ends Jan. 23.

sentence reduced to 14 years.

Because Illinois law generally allows parole after half of a sentence is served, Rarick ordered Tellor freed.

On Monday, Tellor vowed to try and clear his name. He said he hoped the governor would give him a pardon.

"He has the power," Tellor said. "I don't want the trouble of a new trial, but I want it off my record."

A former assistant prosecutor familiar with the case said last week he still felt, based on the trial and appeal, that Tellor was guilty as charged.

Tellor already had one conviction for armed robbery, as well as a string of arrests and convictions on lesser charges. He had been on probation for two weeks when he was charged with the J & J holdup.

Tellor said he didn't "look for it to be easy" to clear his name. "But I know in my heart that I'm innocent. I'm a free man, but I'm bitter.

"Nothing my name has ever stood for in the past deserved for this to happen to me," Tellor said. He added that he feels a lot of pressure as he begins life as a free man.

"I really want to do well. I want to get a job and get an apartment. I want it all fast."

Those having picked up petitions for alderman are:

First Ward: Incumbent Casmer Skubish.

Second Ward: Jim Ortiz, 2509 State St., and Samuel Rongey, 2640 State St.

Third Ward: Joe Williams, 2573 Grand Ave., Andrew Timko, 2263 Grand Ave, and Dan McDowell, 2237 Edison Ave.

Fourth Ward: Sandra Shaw, 1557 Rodger Ave., Bob Barton, 2654 Adams St., and Jack Hood, 2909 Madison Ave.

Fifth Ward: Incumbent Ralph Astorian and Bill Moreland, 2057 13th St.

Sixth Ward: Incumbent Judy Whitaker and Billy Seago, 2304 St. Clair Ave.

Seventh Ward: Incumbent Jeff Worthen and Patricia Gonwa, 18 Miami Court.

Petitions can be picked up at Granite City Hall until the final day of filing. Filing for the April 4 election starts Jan. 16 and ends Jan. 23.

Vrabec was appointed two months ago to fill the seat of Don Wilson, who had resigned for health reasons.

None of the incumbents has picked up petitions yet.

Grzywacz of 1206 Alton Ave. has picked up a petition. So has Richard George Jr., of 1620 Sixth St., who plans to run for Amisch's First Ward aldermanic post. George is a building maintenance mechanic for Union Electric Co. in St. Louis.

James B. Caffrey, 1200 Alton Ave., plans to run for Asperger's Second Ward post.

Asperger told the Press-Record/Journal he does not intend to seek re-election because of his workload as a probation officer.

None of the other township officers have picked up petitions, Pashoff said.

They include William McGarrahan, clerk, C.S. "Casey" Krakowiecki, collector, Babette Mosby, assessor, Eddie Salmond, highway commissioner, and trustees Ben Honorable, Richard Paterson, Joe Young and John Piechocinski.

"They haven't gotten petitions yet but they will all be running," Pashoff said.

Litter bags urge use of seat belts

The Madison County Occupant Protection Program funded through the office of Regional Superintendent of Schools Harry Briggs Jr., Piasa Health Care and the Illinois Department of Transportation has sponsored a seat belt promotion activity involving area car dealerships.

The dealerships choosing to participate have agreed to place litter bags in cars when they are delivered to the new owners. The bags contain information on seat belt usage and DUI laws.

The purpose of this project is to further educate the public on the seat belt law and the importance of proper seat belt use, Briggs said. Participants in Madison County are located in Edwardsville, Collinsville, Wood River, Alton, Granite City and Highland.

Old Newsboys Day total tops $200,000

Donations to the 32nd annual Old Newsboys Day, held Nov. 17, have reached $201,704, according to Boatmen's Bank in St. Louis, the official depository of the Old Newsboys Fund.

It will be several weeks before the final total is known. In its previous 31 years, the campaign collected more than $3,953,000, including $241,000 last year.

All proceeds from Old Newsboys Day go to area children's agencies. The Suburban Journals underwrite all administrative costs of the project so that every cent collected in newspaper sales and donations goes to children.

The picture of generosity will not be developed until Christmas week, when the Journals publish a final total, along with a list of the agencies receiving donations this year.

If you missed Old Newsboys Day and still would like your donation to be a part of that total, send it to Old Newsboys Fund for Children, 1714 Deer Tracks Trail, St. Louis, Mo. 63131.

Dissolving tax district may encourage growth

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

PONTOON BEACH — A special service area tax district here has been dissolved, a move that some feel may encourage more growth for the village.

The Chouteau Trace Special Service Area was dissolved following a recent public hearing at the Village Hall.

No public improvements or other special services have been provided and no taxes levied or public money expended in the Special Service Area, Attorney John Gibbons said at the hearing, called to consider dissolving the service area.

Gibbons said dissolving it would help to attract prospective buyers to the property, which has been designated a Tax Increment Financing (TIF) District.

Leaving in place the service area, enacted by the Village Board on Dec. 23, 1986, conceivably could lower the value of property, Gibbons said.

Potential land buyers wishing to build in Chouteau Trace would be aware that taxes could be levied at some future date for the Special Service Area, he said.

"A majority of the owners are in favor of dissolution," he said. The attorney was speaking for the principal owner, BTL Enterprises Inc., headed by Stan Lucas.

Lucas is developing the 68-acre project and the BTL company has purchased $1.3 million worth of bonds authorized by the village to finance the public improvements and infrastructure work.

The other property owners are the Village of Pontoon Beach, which has two large lots in the Chouteau Trace I development, and the Illinois Department of Transportation.

State seeking complaints on defunct jewelry shop

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The Attorney General's Office is looking for people who may be owed money or jewelry by a local jewelry shop that abruptly closed its door several weeks ago.

Assistant Attorney General Dennis Orsey said his office received seven consumer complaints about R.J. Ltd. Fine Jewelers, which operated at 20-A Crossroads Plaza. Orsey said the company closed without making refunds of cash and jewelry left for repair.

The owner, Robert Moranko, and a clerk, Susan Neimier, were located in Jabwin, Mo., south of Rolla, and have agreed to make restitution on the seven complaints registered thus far, Orsey said. But he said there are probably many more individuals owed by R.J. Ltd.

"There are probably dozens more who don't know where to go" to get help, Orsey said. He urged those with complaints to write or come by the Granite City Regional Office of the Attorney General, 1314 Niedringhaus Ave., to obtain a consumer complaint form, or call him at 877-0404.

Sanders heads chief state school officers

INDIANAPOLIS — Taking over the reins as president of the Council of Chief State School Officers (CCSSO), Illinois State Superintendent of Education Ted Sanders has charted a course of action for the national organization of state superintendents and commissioners of education.

Selected by his colleagues, Sanders began his one-year term at the conclusion of the CCSSO's annual conference. For the past year, Sanders has served as president-elect and chairman of the Council's Policy and Priorities Committee.

Sanders' action plan lists three areas of concern: family education and support for children at risk, teacher qualities and qualifications, and structural changes in schools designed to result in more effective learning.

These three areas focus on the overall theme "Education Success for All."

Sanders' agenda includes the following activities for CCSSO:

Family Education.

•To hold working conferences for state education agency teams on family education. The conferences would focus on strategies to strengthen families so they may better support the education of their children.

•To prepare a guide for chiefs and their staffs on potential state strategies, actions and programs to encourage implementation of family education programs in schools with significant concentrations of students at risk of failure.

•To establish a program of grants to state education agencies using foundation and federal funds to advance state policy planning and implementation of family education.

Strengthening Teaching (Part A).

•To develop and implement a vigorous, long-term initiative aimed at increasing the number and distribution of minority teachers.

•To develop a cadre pf minority role models, successful people from a variety of professions, to sponsor and participate in a campaign to make teaching appealing to minority students.

Part B.

• To serve as a network and clearinghouse for information on states' initiatives in assessment and certification and on technical developments in the field.

• To develop collaborative arrangements among states to utilize resources for assessment and development projects of mutual interest.

School Reforms' Impact on Student/Teacher Relationships.

• To prepare a report for its 1989 Summer Institute which assembles information on proposals to restructure, categorizes them, and displays their relationship or lack thereof to one another.

• To prepare a Statement and Guide to the states and the federal government on the potential value of investments in various proposals to "restructure" schools, emphasizing their impact on changing the effectiveness of learning for students at risk.

Members of CCSSO are the state superintendents and commissioners of education in 50 states, the District of Columbia, and five jurisdictions (American Samoa, Guam, the Northern Mariana Islands, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands).

The purpose of the CCSSO is to assist state superintendents and commissioners in meeting their leadership responsibilities. The organization conducts special projects and seminars which address problems of concern at the state level.

The non-profit group, which has existed since 1927, is based in the Washington, D.C., area and has a staff of 30 full-time and half-time employees.

TAKING THE HONORS is District 9 Superintendent Gib Walmsley, right, as heaccepts a 75-year membership certificate in the North Central Association for Granite City High School from Dr. John S. Kemp, Illinois state director of the NCA.

GCHS gets 75-year award

Granite City High School has been awarded a special certificate signifying 75 years of accreditation by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools.

Dr. John S. Kemp, Illinois state director of the NCA, congratulated District 9 Superintendent Gilbert "Gib" Walmsley; "75 years of North Central Association accreditation is an honor of which everyone in the school and the community can be proud," Kemp said.

"The school has made a long-term commitment to offering a quality educational program to the young people of this community."

The NCA was founded in 1895 but the first list of accredited schools was not published until 1904.

In Illinois, 100 high schools have been accredited for 75 years.

More than 7,000 secondary and elementary schools, colleges and universities in 19 states have joined the NCA in cooperation to further educational improvement.

NCA accreditation and evaluation help schools to clarify their goals, recognize strengths and limitations, and implement programs to meet the needs of modern students.

The NCA sets standards for basic operations of the school and requires a comprehensive evaluation once every seven years.

NCA accreditation helps assure the public that the school is meeting expectations and fulfilling not only local standards, but also those widely used throughout the state and nation.

Profile of bond buyer

Who's buying college savings bonds? Here's the profile from the State of Illinois' initial $90 million offering:

•57 percent were purchased by parents, 22 percent by grandparents and 1 percent by persons who intended to give the money to a student not related to them.

•18 percent of the more than 40,000 bonds sold went to persons who intend to hold them as an investment.

•82 percent were purchased by single-income households.

•43 percent were new customers for the bank or brokerage house selling college savings bonds.

'Night Vistors' at SIUE Dec. 8

"Amahl and The Night Visitors" will be performed at 8 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 8, in Lovejoy Library auditorium on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The one-act holiday opera is directed by SIUE Music Assistant Prof. Ronald Abraham.

The cast and chorus include members of the Opera Players of SIUE, the University United Methodist Church Choir of University City, Mo., and Nathan Hershey, 10, who has sung with Opera Theater of St. Louis.

Applications for 10 to study in China next summer available

Applications for faculty, staff and students of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville to participate in a travel/study program in China next summer are now available.

David Werner, provost and vice president for academic affairs, has announced that up to 10 persons will be permitted to participate in the three-week summer session at Hangzhou Teachers College in late August and early September.

The opportunity to travel and study in the People's Republic of China is the result of an agreement reached in 1987 between SIUE and the Chinese college.

In exchange for the hospitality and educational opportunities extended to SIUE faculty, staff and students each summer, five students and faculty from Hangzhou Teachers College are invited to spend the academic year in study at SIUE.

Participants must pay their own air transportation expenses, estimated at $1,500 for the round trip, and provide their own personal spending money. Their expenses for instruction, food, lodging and travel while they are in China will be covered by Hangzhou Teachers College.

In addition, applicants must plan to complete an intensive course in the Chinese language that will be offered at SIUE during the spring quarter. Persons fluent in Chinese will not be required to take the course.

Persons interested in the travel/study program may apply to the SIUE Office of the Provost and Vice President. For complete information and application forms, the phone number is 692-3772.

The deadline for applications is Feb. 15. Applicants must submit a $500 deposit by June 10.

Dixon disgusted with elderly benefits plan

By Edward T. Hearn
PR/J Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — A federal plan that could restrict elderly benefits "disgusts me," Illinois Sen. Alan Dixon said recently when vowing to fight for Social Security recipients who could lose the right to appeal government decisions denying them the assistance.

"Once again, we in the Congress, as we have regularly in the past eight years, find ourselves in a position of holding this (President Ronald Reagan's) administration's feet to the fire, making sure it honors its contractual obligations to all Americans through the Social Security system," the Illinois Democrat said in a prepared statement.

The proposed plan reportedly calls for stiffening the rules that relate to the kinds of evidence that Social Security, Medicare, and welfare recipients could introduce at appeals hearings.

Social Security officials said the proposal was also an attempt to cut down on the length of the appeals process and save the agency money.

"The draft proposal disgusts me ... The American people deserve better," Dixon said.

The draft plan apparently came in response to data showing the Social Security Administration routinely losing more than 50 percent of its appeals cases. In 1987, the agency responded to 5,000,000 claims for Social Security and 300,000 appeals of its rulings.

About 38.4 million Americans received Social Security benefits last year, costing the government $227 billion. A Social Security spokesman said a decision on the proposed plan by Dr. Otis R. Bowen, Secretary of Health and Human Services, or by his Bush administration successor would not come until early 1989, if at all.

"It is so far away from being a bona fide proposal that its almost ridiculous to talk about it," said Social Security spokesman Frank Battistelli, adding that reports of the draft proposal were given "undue prominence."

The proposal was generated at a very low level in the agency and wasn't even close to being approved by officials and published in the Federal Register for public scrutiny, he said.

"It was just really premature the way it was released," he said, referring to front page accounts in the New York Times and other national publications.

Dixon represents 1.7 million Social Security beneficiaries in Illinois, who are receiving $1.06 billion in 1988, Battistelli said. In his remarks, Dixon complained the draft proposal wasn't the first time the Reagan administration attempted to cut Social Security.

"... In May 1982, Social Security told us it had stopped disability benefits for more than 100,000 families; and I could go on. The battle goes on," Dixon said.

Until recently, Social Security has stayed out of the headlines because of compromises reached in January 1983 by the Greenspan Commission.

The panel persuaded President Reagan and Congress to raise the Social Security tax from 6.05 percent to 7.65 percent by 1990 and delay cost of living adjustments by six months.

According to Social Security spokesman Phil Gambino, the Greenspan Commission reforms will give the agency a $1.4 trillion cumulative surplus in the 2000, based on 6 percent long-term unemployment, 2 percent growth in GNP, 4 percent growth in the Consumer Price Index, 5 percent growth in wages, and 1.9 percent growth in the fertility rate.

Illinois Baptists take swing at straying TV evangelists

The Illinois Baptist State Association took a slap at wayward television evangelists at its convention in Alton this month.

Delegates to the annual convention adopted a resolution on ethics in the ministry that called on believers to support their local churches with their finances and attendance, "where a complete accounting of all monies is given to the congregation on a regular basis."

The resolution pointed out that in the past year, ministerial conduct has become a public issue in the media. It happened, the resolution said, "due to the immorality (sexual and financial) of some ministers, resulting in a negative attitude toward the ministry and local churches."

The resolution said the vast majority of the staffs of local churches are striving to serve God honestly and openly.

Another resolution decried the advertising of alcoholic products directed at children. It said manufacturers of alcoholic products are aiming advertising at children through such promotions as Spuds McKenzie stuffed animals and T-shirts. A dog named Spuds McKenzie is a trademark of Anheuser Busch.

The resolution said alcohol and drug abuse continues to spread in American society and that law enforcement officials say drug dealers are trying to introduce children to drugs at earlier ages.

It urged Illinois Baptists to support school boards that establish dress codes prohibiting the advertising of alcohol products on school property. It also urged Baptists to support legislative actions that would require warning labels on alcohol products and on ads for them.

Delegates also adopted a resolution condemning the controversial movie The Last Temptation of Christ, which, it said, "degrades the personality of Jesus Christ and distorts the historical facts about his life."

The resolution said the film can inflict serious spiritual damage on those not knowledgeable about matters of faith or the person Jesus.

The resolution protested what it called "this blasphemous film" and urged Illinois Baptists to inform the world about the historical Christ.

ACCIDENTAL DISCOVERY MAY END OBESITY

WASHINGTON - Obesity may be controlled naturally with a new type of pill, discovered by accident, a research scientist confirmed recently.

In studies with potential cholesterol-lowering agents, scientists noted an unusual side effect. Patients receiving an ingredient in what is now being called FS-1 all lost weight, in spite of being instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, while body weigh in control groups remained constant.

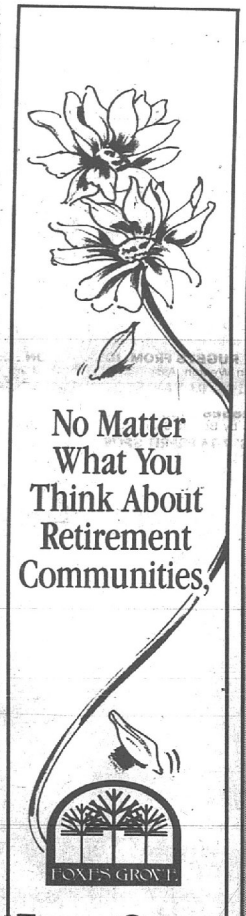

Scientists say the mechanism behind the weight reduction is not clear, but suggest it is partially due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calorie-rich dietary fats. Although scientists for some time have known of substances with the capability of producing this effect, the dramatic impact on weight reduction was not known until recently. Substances with a greater potential to block absorption will produce greater weight loss results.

The director of research and development at National Dietary Research, an organization committed to the investigation and research of nutritional solutions to world-wide health problems, stated "The mechanism by which FS-1 works to decrease body weight is actually a more complex and sophisticated process called nutri-bonding. When chewed and swallowed immediately before meals, FS-1 releases nutrients with low calorie content into the body, while high calorie fats are eliminated, thus providing optimum nutrition and a minimum number of calories."

Studies with FS-1 indicate weight loss results clearly superior to products currently available for the treatment of obesity. In a comparative study by NDR, whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, FS-1 was found to be the most effective treatment for obesity and the most acceptable to patients.

The discovery comes as welcome news for thousands of obesity sufferers waiting years for this type of breakthrough. According to a spokesperson at NDR, "FS-1 can be made available to the public immediately, because it is not a drug and contains only natural ingredients recognized as safe. A drug with essentially the same weight loss capabilities might take as long as eight years to be available, due to lengthy delays encountered in the approval process." FS-1 is currently available on a limited basis through physicians and pharmacies for $24.98. An instruction sheet for proper use and optimum results is provided with each bottle of 100 tablets.

Had your fill of relatives? Have a holiday movie feast

By Richard Zacks
Video review
New York Times Syndicate

The holidays are a celebration of family life, and relatives come in all shapes and sizes. Some of them don't get along, and they all gather in one overheated room.

If you feel like trading in your family for someone else's this holiday season, why not invite some celluloid guests? Many of them may be just as obnoxious as your relatives, but at least they won't eat your food.

A few of these movies even feature holiday feasts. In "Down and Out in Beverly Hills" (1986, Touchstone, $19.95), bored housewife Bette Midler goes into the kitchen only to call the caterer to have her turkey delivered.

If you want to hop in a time machine and invite some hippies, track down a copy of "Alice's Restaurant" (1969, CBS/Fox, $19.95). Arlo Guthrie, college dropout/draft dodger, joins a multiracial hippie brigade for a Thanksgiving dinner in a desanctified church. "Praise be to Alice for coming home to cook this feast," toasts her husband, Ray, played by James Broderick. "Praise be to us for being here to dig it." The lavish spread, though, leads to legal troubles when Arlo and his buddy dump the garbage down a hill and wind up in the hoosegow.

"Hannah and her Sisters" (1986, HBO, $19.98) includes not one but three holiday dinners, all on Manhattan's Upper West Side. Michael Caine plays a literate lawyer who lusts after his wife's sister, Barbara Hershey. Poor Hannah (Mia Farrow) — a talented actress, great mother and cook who prepared every dish herself — she's so perfect that her husband strays, one sister lies to her and the other resents her. "Do you find me too giving, too disgustingly perfect?" Farrow says toward the end. With this, Woody has allowed himself to make a funny film, not another "Interiors" or "September."

"Moonstruck" (1987, MGM/UA, $89.98), that absurd romantic comedy, packs some great family scenes by way of Brooklyn Italians. Father and daughter, wanting to deliver some big news, rush upstairs past midnight to wake up mom. "Who's dead?" asks an alarmed Olympia Dukakis. "Nobody. Loretta's getting married," replies her cheapskate husband Vincent Gardenia. "Johnny Camereri?" muses mom. "I don't like him," harumphs dad. "You're not going to marry him, Cosimo," Olympia tells him, with startling common sense.

Trust Chevy Chase to deliver the ultimate WASP family in "National Lampoon's European Vacation" (1985, Warner, $25.95). Clark Griswold must keep them on schedule. "Clark, will you please slow down, the kids are exhausted," shouts his wife (Beverly d'Angelo) as they mount the steps of the Louvre. "Honey, it's closing in 15 minutes and there are 100,000 works of art to see."

In "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" (1958, MGM/UA, $24.98), Maggie (Elizabeth Taylor) tries to stir husband Brick (Paul Newman) out of his lethargy. Or grab

AND YOU THOUGHT your relatives were weird? Check out Cher and Nicholas Cage in the 1987 romantic comedy 'Moonstruck' on videocassette.

"Crimes of the Heart" (1986, Lorimar, $89.98), about the reunion of three off-the-wall sisters, played by Diane Keaton, Jessica Lange and Sissy Spacek.

After meeting some of the oddballs in these screenplays, maybe you will want to run back to rejoin your own relatives.

Best Bets: "Willow" (1988, RCA/Columbia, $89.98). George Lucas' sword-and-sorcery fantasy, a kind of midget and muscle man buddy picture that was panned by critics but attracted $50 million at the box office.

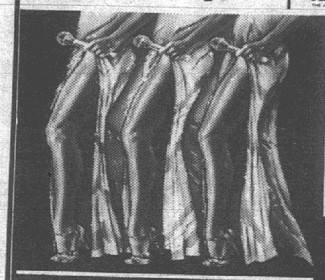

"The Dead" (1987, Vestron, $89.98). John Huston's last picture. He directed daughter Anjelica in son Tony's adaptation of the James Joyce story.

"Pat Paulsen on Wine" (1988, New Star, $19.95). The Smothers Brothers' candidate for president owned a California winery and is a connoisseur of the grape.

Museum shows off holiday color

The 152-year-old Madison County Historical Museum, Edwardsville, built by the late Dr. John H. Weir, will be decked out for the holiday season withits annual Christmas exhibit titled 'Recalling Christmas Past" during a Dec. 4 open house.

JOHN LENNON and his son, Sean, sort through snapshots in the kitchen of their home in New York. Lennon's life is depicted in 'Imagine: John Lennon.'

'Imagine: John Lennon' unfolds as gentle, stunning documentary

By Harry Hamm
Staff affiliate

John Lennon's widow, Yoko Ono, in 1986 selected documentary film whiz David Wolper for a project about the slain musician because of Wolper's reputation as a tough film producer who is not easily intimidated. Wolper has made more than 400 documentaries during his career, including "This Is Elvis" in 1981.

Ono wanted a definitive theatrical documentary, an honest recounting of Lennon's life showing both the private man and his career.

The movie surveys Lennon's life from its beginning Oct. 9, 1940, at the Oxford Street Maternity Hospital in Liverpool and examines Lennon's youth, the origins and explosive success of the Beatles, Lennon's plunge into political and social causes, his 14 months away from Ono (during which he became a chronic alcoholic), his reunion with Ono and the start of the second stage of his work as a musician and songwriter.

A wealth of film, videotape, news coverage, music videos, motion picture footage and material from Lennon's estate all have been assembled and edited into a chronological string of episodic history and personal experiences that take Lennon's story to its sudden, tragic end on Dec. 8, 1980, when he was shot to death in New York City.

Most documentaries have a narrator. So does "Imagine: John Lennon" (4 stars), Lennon himself. Throughout the film, the voice heard most often is Lennon's.

In addition to Lennon and Ono, other prominent commentators in the documentary include longtime record producer George Martin; Lennon's first wife, Cynthia; and his sons Sean and Julian. Noticeably absent in commentary roles are the three surviving members of the Beatles, Ringo Starr, George Harrison and McCartney.

At Fox, second generation of Osmonds will hit the stage

By Deborah Reinhardt
Staff affiliate

Most sequels fall short of the original product but there occasionally are exceptions. Take, for example, the Osmond Boys.

The Osmond Boys are the children of Alan Osmond, one of the Osmond Brothers.

Alan's sons Michael (13), Nathan (11), Douglas (10), David (9), Scott (7) and Jonathan (5) already are making it big in show business.

The little shavers have performed at Opryland USA in Nashville, Tenn., are set to appear in the Bob Hope Christmas television special and are under contract with Disney for a series pilot in 1989.

The Osmond Boys are slated to join their father, uncles Wayne and Merrill and aunt Marie in The Osmond Family Magic of Christmas, which comes to the Fox Theater for two performances on Dec. 4.

Alan Osmond said his sons (he and his wife, Suzanne, have seven) grew up surrounded by music. When they were younger, Osmond taught them barber shop-style harmonies.

This may be a sweet story, but other Osmond parents feel the extensive show business demands made on their youngsters could be harmful. But Alan Osmond said music has kept his family together.

The Osmond Family's Magic of Christmas features holiday songs linked together with personal Osmond stories. Santa Claus will make an appearance, all the ingredients for a fun holiday show seems to be all there.

"I tried to get it to snow on stage," Osmond said, laughing.

The Magic of Christmas show will be at 3 and 7 p.m. Dec. 4. Tickets are $5.50, $11.50, $14.50 and $17.50 and are available at the Fox box office or Ticketmaster outlets, including Famous-Barr and Dillard's. To order tickets call (314) 534-1678.

Crunchy topper for pie

Now that Thanksgiving is over and Christmas is next on the list, it might be a good idea to keep in mind the dessert that's always tops in the holiday season — pumpkin pie is one tradition that even the most creative or inventive cook does not attempt to change.

Add a new twist to dessert this year to satisfy the adventurers, as well as traditionalists, at the table. Pumpkin Pie with Pistachio Praline Sauce gives an opportunity to do just that.

Here a praline candy recipe has been simplified and adapted into a quickly made sauce. The rich flavor comes from brown sugar, butter and pistachios. It can be made ahead and reheated in a microwave or just before serving stirred together in less than 10 minutes.

Biting into a piece of Pumpkin Pie with Pistachio Praline Sauce is the final test for the success of this recipe. The rich praline-flavored sauce, laced with crunchy and nutty pistachios, complements the moist, spicy pumpkin pie. A dollop of whipped cream creates a cool, smooth ending note.

Do not restrict this creative dessert to this time of year. It will be a perfect ending to any holiday dinner. The sauce makes a perfect present to a friend or relative.

Brilliant green pistachios are easy and elegant to give during the holiday season, too. Simply place them in easy closure plastic bags and wrap them in colorful tissue paper or place them in jars and tie a ribbon around the top.

Pistachios make a convenient and festive appetizer for holiday cocktail parties. Simply put them in bowls and place around the house for easy opening and munching.

Pumpkin pie with pistachio praline sauce

- 1 cup packed brown sugar
- 2 tbsp. cornstarch
- 1 cup cold water
- ½ cup chopped shelled pistachios
- 2 tbsp. butter or margarine
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- Favorite baked Pumpkin Pie
- Sweetened whipped cream
- Chopped pistachios for garnish

Combine brown sugar and cornstarch. Add water. Cook and stir over medium-high heat until thickened and bubbly. Stir in butter and vanilla.

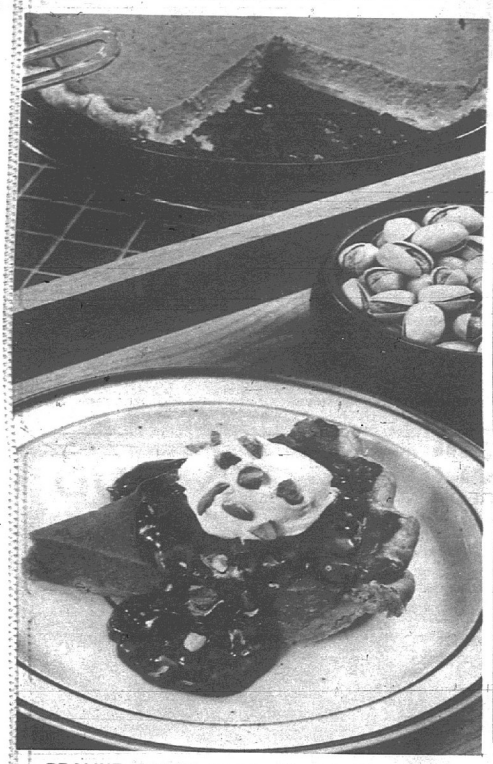

Add pistachios just before serving. Mix well.

Serve warm or cool over Pumpkin Pie. Top with dollop of whipped cream. Garnish with additional chopped pistachios.

Makes about ¾ cup sauce.

Pumpkin Pie: Beat 2 eggs. Add 1¾ cups cooked or canned pumpkin, ¾ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon cloves. Mix thoroughly. Blend in 1½ cups milk.

Pour into unbaked 9-inch pie shell. Bake at 425° for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350°. Continue baking 45 minutes or until knife inserted near center comes out clean.

PRALINE SAUCE, laced with pistachios, gives a crunchy taste for the top of traditional pumpkin pie.

Hunters bagging 'lean' wild game

By Jacqueline Lankfer
Registered dietitian
American Heart Association

Sportsmen who bring home meat during deer-hunting season have an opportunity to have a lean meal of venison with only a fraction of beef's fat. The low fat content can be attributed to life in the wild being strenuous with little opportunity for overeating. Venison is, thus, a lean alternative for many favorite recipes.

Recipes for preparing lean game usually call for the addition of cooking oil and other fats. When evaluating recipes, it is important to question the role of added fats.

Many times the amount of fat required in a recipe is excessive. For example, basting is a necessity if venison is to be roasted, yet the addition of a lot of fat may defeat the healthful benefits of serving a venison roast. The solution is a compromise. Baste the roast with a combination of oil or margarine and other liquid. Basting liquids can range from watered-down oil-and-vinegar dressing to fruit juices or seasoned wine. Individual tastes and imaginations serve as the best guides.

To convert favorite recipes that call for other meats, the same principle applies and the same question must be asked. How much, if any, fat must be added to yield a satisfactory meal offering? The answer varies, depending on the recipe. Ground venison equals lean ground beef in almost every recipe. Venison steaks, on the other hand, may require a little more care since lean meats tend to take on a tough, less tender texture when cooked.

Consider braising and fricasseeing as an excellent means for cooked venison without required excessive amounts of cooking fats while producing tender results.

The following recipe for Venison Stew is one the entire family will enjoy. If the family sportsman fails to bag a deer, substitute any lean meat or poultry.

Venison stew

2 lb. breast or shoulder venison
2 tbsp. oil
6 cups boiling water
Freshly ground black pepper
2 tbsp. flour
4 medium potatoes, diced
4 carrots, diced
2 turnips, diced
4 onions, diced
Seasoned flour

Cut venison in 1-inch cubes. Roll in seasoned flour. Brown in oil in heavy skillet.

Add boiling water and pepper to browned meat. Cover. Simmer 2 to 3 hours.

Add diced potatoes, carrots, turnips and onions. Cook until tender. Use 2 tablespoons flour moistened with water to thicken remaining liquid.

Yields 8 servings, about 250 calories each.

Chicken noodle soup

1 (3 to 3½ lb.) chicken, cut in parts
6 cups water
1 cup finely chopped onion
¾ cup finely chopped celery
2 tsp. salt
2 tsp. chopped fresh parsley
½ tsp. pepper
2 cups egg noodles, uncooked

In large saucepan or Dutch oven, place chicken with water, onion, celery, salt, parsley and pepper. Cover. Simmer over low temperature about 1 hour or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease.

Remove chicken from broth. When cool enough to handle, remove chicken from bones, discarding skin and bones. Cut chicken in bite-size pieces.

Break noodles in small pieces. Cook according to package directions. Drain. Skim fat from broth and discard.

Bring broth to boil. Add chicken and cooked noodles to broth. Simmer about 5 minutes.

Garnish with slices of hard-cooked egg.

Makes 6 servings.

Pork tenderloin francais

1¼ lb. pork tenderloin
2 tbsp. oil
1 tsp. salt
Pinch white pepper
4 medium carrots, cut in julienne strips
½ cup apple juice
¼ tsp. nutmeg
2 medium turnips, cut in julienne strips
½ cup whipping cream
2 tbsp. snipped parsley

Cut pork diagonally in slices ¼-inch thick. Stir-fry pork half at a time in hot oil in wok until pink color disappears. Remove. Season with salt and pepper.

Add carrots, apple juice and nutmeg. Reduce heat. Cover and simmer 4 minutes.

Add turnips. Continue cooking, covered, 4 minutes.

Add cream. Cook and stir 3 to 5 minutes. Return pork to wok. Cook and stir until heated through.

Sprinkle with parsley.

Makes 4 servings.

Leftover turkey better for gobbling this week

By Janice Denham
Staff affiliate

"Turkey trauma" is replaced by "makeover madness" in many homes after the Thanksgiving holidays.

Some people prepare the holiday meal in order to have leftovers; others overeat in order to avoid them. Is there life after cold turkey sandwiches once the gravy for hot sandwiches is gone?

The resounding answer is "Of course!"

Turkey is one of those wonderful meats that can go into literally any casserole recipe a family favors. It offers universal appeal and economy to all classes. All nationalities use it in everything from pasta to tacos, stroganoff to curry.

Of course, there always is one cook in the crowd who makes soup with a turkey carcass. The essential ingredients are a turkey carcass, 1 or 2 onions, 1 or 2 carrots, a rib of celery, a bay leaf, black pepper and water. Simmer, covered, about 2 hours in a Dutch oven or large pot. Remove meat and discard bones. Stock can be strained at this point and saved, if desired, for another day, or continued to cook with barley, noodles and favorite vegetables.

The meat itself is best saved off the bones. Stuffing always should be stored separately. The National Turkey Federation suggests placing the meat in covered containers and storing it in the coldest part of the refrigerator, allowing space around it for air circulation.

Cooked turkey may be stored in a refrigerator two days, longer if it is mixed with other foods. Broth made from the carcass should be used within three days. The easiest way to preserve the leftovers longer is to freeze them in useful serving sizes up to four months.

Turkey has a mild flavor, so it will pick up whatever seasoning with which it is placed. Thus, to ensure a delicate turkey flavor, do not overpower it. That is why it mates so well with creams both chilled and warm. For instance, tarragon and a hint of mint might be appreciated in a cold salad with a dressing of mayonnaise and lemon juice. Almonds are another soul-mate of turkey. Try adding them to turkey slices with leftover gravy and serving open-face on whole wheat bread.

Turkey salad goes back far enough that perhaps Eve should have named her firstborn Tom. Waldorf salad left from a feast renews its vigor as next day's lunch when turkey chunks are added. For a different flavor twist, mix 1 cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon honey, up to ½ teaspoon curry powder and ¼ teaspoon celery salt with 3 cups cubed turkey, 1 cup seedless grapes and ½ cup pecan halves.

Other recipes are available in two leaflets by sending a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope to: Quality Product and Planned Overs, National Turkey Federation, 11319 Sunset Hills Rd., Reston, Va. 22090. This year's Butterball booklet is available by calling the free Turkey Talk-Line 1-800-323-4848 between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday to Friday through Dec. 23.

Turkey-pepper pizza

- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1 tbsp. oil
- 2 cups shredded or chopped cooked turkey
- 1 cup picante sauce
- 1 tsp. oregano leaves, crushed
- 1 lb. frozen bread dough, thawed
- 1 medium onion, thinly sliced, separated in rings
- 1 small green bell pepper, thinly sliced in rings or diced
- 1 small red bell pepper, thinly sliced in rings or diced
- 2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Monterey Jack or cheddar cheese

In 10-inch skillet, saute garlic in oil 1 minute. Add turkey, picante sauce and oregano. Bring to boil. Reduce heat. Simmer, uncovered, 4 minutes. Remove from heat.

Pat and stretch bread dough in greased 15-by-10 inch jellyroll pan. Spread turkey mixture evenly over dough. Top with onion and red and green pepper. Sprinkle evenly with cheese. Bake in 400° oven about 20 minutes or until golden brown. Cut in squares. Serve with additional picante sauce.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Creamy turkey soup

- 2 tbsp. margarine
- ½ cup finely chopped onion
- 2½ cups turkey broth
- ½ cup thinly sliced carrot
- ½ cup thinly sliced celery
- 1 tsp. salt
- ¼ tsp. pepper
- 2 cups cubed cooked turkey
- ⅓ cup cornstarch
- 3 cups milk
- 2 tbsp. chopped parsley

In 4-quart saucepan, melt margarine over medium heat. Add onion. Stirring frequently, cook 2 minutes or until tender.

Stir in broth, carrot, celery, salt and pepper. Bring to boil. Reduce heat. Simmer 5 minutes or until vegetables are tender-crisp. Add turkey.

In medium bowl, stir corn starch and milk until smooth. Add to turkey mixture. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Stir in parsley.

Makes 7 cups.

Eggless, milkless butterless cake

1 cup brown sugar
1 heaping tbspn. lard
1 cup water
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
1 cup raisins
1 cup nuts

Mix ingredients together and boil for 5 minutes. Let cool, then add 1 tsp. baking soda, dissolved in a little hot water. Add 1/2 tsp. of baking powder and 2 cups flour. Mix and bake in a loaf pan or angel food cake pan for 1 hour at 350 degrees.

Few foods can beat that incredible pasta

Of all the food in the world, few foods can beat incredible pasta.

It is delicious, nutritious, satisfying, versatile, inexpensive and easy to prepare. With a little bit of imagination and different pasta shapes, excitement will come to everyday family meals.

Just choose one or more new pasta shapes like rotelle, fusilli or tortellini, then substitute them for the kind normally used in a recipe.

Practice pasta techniques with exciting one-pot/one-pan meals. Each one is so delicious and so simple to prepare, it seems like magic.

Try show-stopping Pasta Cacciatore. By adding wheel-shaped pasta to tried-and-true Chicken Cacciatore, an ordinary meal turns into an extraordinary one. This favorite pasta shape will appeal especially to children.

Zesty Ziti is a fun-type and tasty pasta meal for the entire family. Here mild sausage is combined with the sauce to make a hearty topping for this tube-shaped pasta.

For the grand finale of this trio, create a pasta illusion with pizza-inspired Pasta with the Works. Though it is not a pizza at all, it tastes just like one. This savory dish is brimming with favorite pizza ingredients, pepperoni, mushrooms, green peppers, olives and parmesan and mozzarella cheeses. By using macaroni twists instead of dough, this pasta pizza goes together faster than saying abracadabra.

Pasta cacciatore

- ½ cup dry white wine or water
- 1 medium clove garlic, minced
- ½ tsp. pepper
- 1 lb. boneless chicken thighs, cubed
- 2 tbsp. olive oil
- 2½ cups chunky spaghetti sauce with mushrooms and green pepper
- 8 oz. wheel-shaped macaroni, uncooked

Cook macaroni according to package directions. Drain.

In medium bowl, combine wine, garlic and pepper. Add chicken. Marinate 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Drain, reserving marinade.

In large skillet over medium heat, in hot oil cook chicken 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add spaghetti sauce and reserved marinade. Reduce heat to low. Cover. Simmer 10 minutes or until chicken is tender, stirring occasionally.

Pour sauce mixture over hot cooked macaroni.

Makes 4½ cups sauce or 4 servings.

Pasta with the works

- ½ cup thinly sliced pepperoni (1 oz.)
- 1 medium green pepper, thinly sliced
- 2½ cups chunky spaghetti sauce with mushrooms
- ½ cup pitted ripe olives, halved
- ¼ cup grated parmesan cheese
- 8 oz. twist macaroni, uncooked
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese (4 oz.)

Cook macaroni according to package directions. Drain.

In large skillet over low heat, cook pepperoni until lightly browned, stirring often. Add green pepper. Cook 5 minutes or until tender-crisp, stirring often.

Add spaghetti sauce and olives. Cover. Simmer 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in parmesan cheese.

Toss sauce mixture with hot cooked macaroni. Immediately transfer to serving dish. Sprinkle with mozzarella cheese.

Makes 6 cups or 4 servings.

Zesty ziti

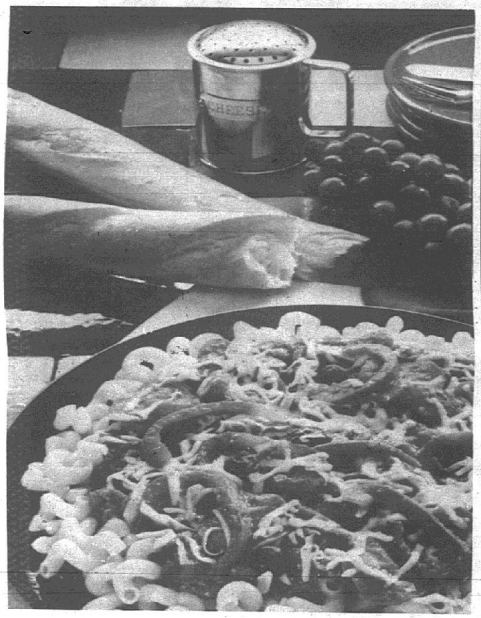

- 1 lb. mild Italian sausage, cut in ½ inch pieces
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 1 medium green pepper, diced
- 1 large clove garlic, minced
- 1 jar (32 oz.) spaghetti sauce (3½ cups)

Hot cooked ziti

In 2-quart saucepan over medium heat, cook sausage, onion and green pepper with garlic until sausage is done and vegetables are tender. Spoon off fat.

Add spaghetti sauce. Heat through, stirring occasionally. Serve over ziti.

Makes 5½ cups or 7 servings.

PASTA PLAYS the old switcheroo-trick when it changes a 'blah' meal into an 'ah' meal in the blink of an eye.

Church window cookies

1/2 c. margarine
12 oz. chocolate chips
1 c. chopped nuts
10½ oz. pkg. colored miniature marshmallows
Coconut is optional.

Melt margarine and chocolate chips in double boiler; cool. Add nuts and marshmallows.

Put coconut on waxed paper and pour mixture over it and form one or two rolls. Cover with more coconut. Wrap and refrigerate. When thoroughly cold, it may be sliced.

Most college trustees against name change

By RICK ARNOLD
Staff affiliate

BELLEVILLE—BAC Trustee Ted Farmer is persistent, to say the least.

Though his idea to sell Belleville Area College's name for $30 million met with mixed reactions at the trustees' Nov. 9 study session, Farmer again tried to sell his idea at the trustees' Nov. 16 meeting.

But the passage of time has not caused the other BAC trustees to feel they needed to move ahead on the proposal.

"I think board discussion (about the name change) at this level could be harmful," said Trustee Robert Dintelmann. "I've talked to several people who thought it was a bad idea."

Farmer said he had talked to people who liked the idea. "And these are people whose values I highly cherish," Farmer said.

Farmer agreed with the other trustees that there are other ways to raise money besides going after a $30 million donation.

Farmer disagreed with the other board members, however, over the role the BAC Foundation should play in fund-raising.

The foundation was formed in 1974 by the Board of Trustees in an effort to generate more money and publicity for the college.

The foundation, which is comprised mainly of civic and business leaders, had been relatively inactive for the past several years, until college officials and community leaders revived it earlier this year.

Events at the college the past few years and the negative publicity surrounding these events made it hard for the foundation to raise money for the college, foundation officials have said.

Farmer believes the college administration should do most of the "footwork" for fund-raising efforts, with the foundation providing assistance when needed.

His fellow trustees feel, however, the foundation should do the bulk of fund-raising.

"We're in the education business, not the fund-raising business," said Board Chairman Larry Reinneck. "If we were sending out envelopes (containing fund-raising information) with 25-cent stamps, as a taxpayer, I'd be upset."

Trustee Elizabeth Jenner told Farmer he should try to be patient while the administration and the foundation become better organized.

"I honestly feel that when this current administration gets settled, a lot of these things will fall into place," Jenner said.

Reinneck and Trustee Van Smith agreed with Jenner.

"I think the foundation has to crawl before it can walk, and walk before it can run," Reinneck said.

"Once we arrive at something that we are comfortable with, we'll proceed," Smith said.

Reagan administration again targets Roe-Wade

By Sabrina Eaton
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — A last-ditch Reagan administration bid to use a new Missouri case to overturn the 1973 Supreme Court decision that legalized abortion has infuriated groups that support maintaining abortion as an option.

In a friend-of-the-court brief filed just two days after the election, Solicitor General Charles Fried said the Missouri case "presents an appropriate opportunity" to reconsider the landmark Roe v. Wade decision.

The Missouri law, passed in 1986 and ruled unconstitutional by a St. Louis federal appeals court in July, declared that life begins at conception and mandates that no public funds, employees or personnel be used to perform or advise an abortion.

The law was challenged by pro-choice groups in Missouri, who fear the case could be used to completely overturn Roe v. Wade or severely restrict access to abortions.

"I think it was no coincidence this happened so soon after the election," said Lucia Miller, an organizer for the National Abortion Rights Action League in St. Louis. "I think they did it so they wouldn't have to worry about Bush losing any pro-choice votes."

Anti-abortion activists who lobbied for the law's passage in the Missouri legislature expressed optimism the Justice Department action would encourage the court to take a new stance on abortion.

Samuel Lee of South City, the state legislative chairman for Missouri Citizens for Life who helped write the law, said the legislation was drafted specifically to be a Supreme Court test case.

The stipulation that life begins at conception is a key provision of the Missouri law, because part of the basis for the Roe v. Wade decision was the court's unwillingness to determine where life starts, he said.

Loretto Wagner of Baldwin, the group's federal legislative director, said Missouri's pro-life legislature blazed the trail and that other states, such as Illinois and Michigan, might adopt their own laws to restrict abortions if Missouri wins its case. "Millions of children's lives are at stake with this issue," said Ann O'Brien of University City, who serves as director of the Pro-Life Direct Action League.

The Supreme Court last rejected a Justice Department request to scuttle Roe v. Wade in 1986 by a 5-4 vote. Solicitor General Fried attached a copy of that case's brief to his request.

With the departure of Justice Lewis F. Powell, Jr., and Reagan's appointment of Anthony M. Kennedy, pro-lifers are optimistic they will now have a majority to overturn Roe v. Wade, or at least give states more power to restrict abortions.

Of the Reagan appointees to the Supreme Court, justices Antonin Scalia and Sandra Day O'Connor are known to be critical of that decision, but Kennedy did not take a stance during his confirmation hearing.

Fried said the Justice Department filed the brief because the Eighth Circuit appeals decision implies that some federal restrictions on public funding for abortion might also be incorrect.

"I have no idea what the effect of our brief will be," Fried said. "It was purely informational. Our job is to say what federal interests are and the rest is up to them."

Fried said the brief was filed on the day it was due, and proximity to elections was coincidental.

"To have filed early, which we never do anyway, would have made this an inappropriate political issue," he said.

But Roger Evans, the Planned Parenthood attorney who argued the Missouri case before the Eighth Circuit court, said that because of an extension, the actual filing deadline was not until Dec. 12.

"In my opinion, this was a plainly political decision to once again bang on the court's door with the already-rejected position that Roe v. Wade should be overturned," Evans said. "This raises the stakes all the way around."

The Supreme Court will probably vote on whether to hear the case in January, a court spokeswoman said. If the court agrees to a review, arguments would probably be heard late next year, she said.

Perfect batting average for Costello, labor says

By Edward T. Hearn
PR/J Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — The nation's leading labor organization says U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello had four chances to support its cause in the 100th Congress and each time he came through for the pro-labor position.

The AFL-CIO gave the Belleville Democrat a perfect score of 100 for his 1988 voting record on key labor and social issues.

The labor group has rated every House member and senator since 1955. An umbrella group for 102 of the nation's labor unions, the AFL-CIO represents more than 14 million American workers, according to spokesman Lorrie McHugh.

Costello, who entered the House in August, supported the AFL-CIO position on three labor votes and on South African apartheid, one of the first votes the 21st District lawmaker cast in the House as the successor to Rep. Mel Price, who died in April.

Arriving late in the legislative session, Costello was not rated with the rest of Congress on many of the 14 votes that the AFL-CIO picked as critical to its membership.

"Four out of four is obviously a good score and we would hope (Costello) would continue," McHugh said.

In July, a month before Costello won a special election, the AFL-CIO says it celebrated its biggest legislative win when the House and Senate passed a plant-closing protection law, a bill requiring employers at plants with more than 100 employees to give them 60-day notices if the plants are going to shut down.

Although having earlier in the year vetoed a plant-closing protection bill, President Ronald Reagan let the new version become law without his signature, mainly because the House and Senate were ready to override the veto.

But Reagan dealt the AFL-CIO a setback in October when the House failed, 272-152, to override his veto of a trade bill designed to help the U.S. textile and apparel industries. Costello, in a losing cause, voted for the trade restrictions, which would set limits on certain textile imports.

Costello in the same month helped win House passage of a bill that would require major foreign investors to register their U.S. holdings with the executive branch. The bill passed 250-170 in the House despite Reagan's objections.

Costello also supported the AFL-CIO position when he voted in favor of an independent study to determine whether the federal government pays men more than women for comparable work. The bill passed the House, 297-101, but was rejected by the Senate.

In a foreign policy move supported by the AFL-CIO, Costello voted to impose stronger sanctions against South Africa because of its racist policy of apartheid. The bill, with few exceptions, would have cut off trade between the two nations.

Although the Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved a similar bill pushed by Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., and Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., the full Senate never took it up for consideration.

Do you have names for people you don't understand?

Crazy. Lunatic. Crackpot. Psycho. Nuts. Slurs like these hide our fear of mental illness. Advertisements hawking "insane prices" and "midnight madness sales" merely reflect our scorn. Derogatory language does something else, too. It keeps us from seeing mental illness for what it really is: a distressing medical disease. A disease that afflicts over 35 million Americans.

But the stigma of mental illness keeps most of those afflicted from seeking help. Which is tragic. Because today there's more hope than ever. Medical science understands more about the dynamics of mental illness and has discovered new drugs and better therapies to treat it.

In fact, today, 2 out of 3 people who get help go on to lead productive lives. For an informative booklet about mental illness, contact the American Mental Health Fund.

Cook's bombs salvage split at Jacksonville

MATT COOK, minus most of his hair, scored 65 points — including 17 three-pointers — in four games at the Crimson Classic.

By Gary King
Staff writer

JACKSONVILLE — If their opening act was any indication, the Warrior basketball team figures to make that Jekyll-Hyde fellow look like Mr. Rogers in comparison.

In their first four games of the season, the Warriors took turns in looking (A) like a fundamental team that couldn't score; (B) like a sound team that could play havoc on most of its opponents this winter; (C) painfully familiar.

In a 70-65 win over Sparta in their final game of the 25th annual Jacksonville Crimson Classic on Saturday night, the Warriors reached deep down into their bag of guts and managed to imitate choice "B".

After playing three games in a span of 26 hours, the Warriors saved their best showing of the tournament — in fact, their best showing in recent memory — for Saturday night's finale. The win gave the Warriors a 2-2 record at the season-opening tournament.

Behind the long-range sniping of junior guard Matt Cook and a solid team effort from the entire Warrior starting five, Granite City was able to overcome a five-point halftime deficit and force Sparta to play catchup for the entire second half.

Don Deterding didn't understand from whence his squad gathered its strength, but he wasn't exactly complaining, either.

"I'm so doggone proud of these guys, and not just because we won, but because they showed some real courage out there tonight," said Deterding, whose squad had dropped a heartbreaking 53-48 verdict to East St. Louis just a few hours prior to the Sparta tilt. "The guys only had two hours rest, and I told my wife and daughter that we'd be lucky to score 40 points against Sparta. The kids were just drained. But the kids came out and showed some real courage. I just couldn't be prouder of them."

It didn't take a rocket scientist to figure out the difference between Granite City's loss to East St. Louis and its win over Sparta. Here's a hint: His name is Cook and he scored 29 points on eight three-pointers after scrounging only three points out of the loss to the Flyers.

"It was good to see Matt hot tonight because he's been so very cold for most of this tournament," Deterding said. "He got some time out on that wing tonight, and when he gets time, he'll pick you apart."

But Cook wasn't the only thorn in Sparta's side. He had company from senior Jeff Schaefer (16 points) and junior John VanBuskirk (11 points). And although seniors Kory Burton (nine points) and Mike Wilkinson (five points) weren't being confused with Bird-Jordan, both played solid overall games. Burton had 12 rebounds.

"Tonight was just a super team effort," Deterding said. "I thought Johnny did an excellent defensive job, Schaefer played well, and, although they didn't score a lot, Burton and Wilkinson played good defense and passed the ball fairly well."

But the Warriors' storybook win did not have a storybook start, as Bulldog guard David Richardson's 13 first-quarter points almost singlehandedly gave his squad a 15-12 lead at the end of the first quarter.

After a tight second quarter, Sparta managed to hop out to a 36-31 halftime lead behind Richardson's fourth three-pointer of the half. The Warriors were able to stay close behind the sharpshooting of Cook, who knocked down six three-pointers in the opening half.

The third quarter saw the Warriors rattle off eight quick points to pull ahead 39-36 on a bucket from Burton, a three-pointer from Cook and a basket and free throw from Schaefer.

Defensively, the Warriors also went to a box-and-one alignment with VanBuskirk drawing the man-to-man assignment on Richardson. VanBuskirk cooled the hot-handed Sparta senior for the rest of the contest, as Richardson collected only five quiet second-half points to finish with 22.

"We felt that if we could take the quarterback out of their offense, we'd be all right," Deterding said. "And I thought Johnny did a super job of shutting No. 20 (Richardson) down. But the bottom line is that when you can score some points, you can win. When you don't score, you don't win. It's that simple."

Scoring, however, was anything but simple for the Warriors last season. But Deterding is hoping Saturday's win is an indication that the Demon Season 1987-88 has been exorcised.

"We wanted to get out of here 2-2, and we did that," the Warrior coach said. "I think we could've been 3-1, but you can't dwell on the past. I think this team does a lot of things pretty good, but the bottom line is that we've got to be able to shoot and put the ball in the basket."

With a renewed lease on hardwood life, the Warriors will take their show on the road to Triad on Friday. Deterding just hopes the Warrior's Jekyll squad shows up.

"We know we're not a bunch of worldbeaters," Deterding

Shorthanded grapplers off to struggling start

EDWARDSVILLE — Mike Garland likes to get the season off on the right foot as much as the next guy. But he was far from shocked with the less-than-scintillating beginning to the Warrior wrestling campaign last Wednesday.

Granite City did squeeze out a 42-35 win over Centralia, but suffered defeats to Edwardsville and Carbondale to take a 1-2 record into this weekend's action.

"I had a feeling this was going to happen," Garland said. "I have Jerold Moss out with a shoulder injury and Rich Fenoglio had to get five stitches over his left eye last Monday."

That's two starters and Garland also has had problems with other wrestlers not making weight. As a result, Granite City went with a lineup that was far less than its best.

The Warriors suffered four pins and two technical falls in a 43-27 loss to Edwardsville — with two freshmen and two sophomores in the lineup. Granite City also lost 36-29 to Carbondale as they were beaten badly in the upper weight classes.

"When you take this many starters out of your lineup and have to replace them with three freshmen and one sophomore, it makes it difficult — but not impossible — to win," Garland said. "I say not impossible because if we would not have gotten pinned or lost on technical falls, we would have beaten both Carbondale and Edwardsville."

Bright spots included a pair of seniors. Bryan Pritchett (119 pounds) and Brent Davis (125) each had three pins. Junior Larry Hahne also had three wins at the 189 class while Dan Grayson won twice at 160.

Davis' three wins gave him 100 for his high school career. He pinned Carbondale's Russell Sheppard at 3:24, Edwardsville's Jeff Farley at 0:23 (the quick pin of the night) and Centralia's Matt Crain at 1:14. Pritchett got pins of Carbondale's Nate McDoniel at 2:55, Edwardsville's Larry Freitag at 2:30 and Centralia's Brian Rollinson at 0:52.

Injuries and failure to make weight forced Garland to juggle his lineup in several weight classes. Freshmen Mark McKechan and Ryan King split time at 103. Sophomores Gary Bazzell and

Flyers one win shy again

By Curtis Duncan Jr.
Staff writer

NORMAL — Hancock Stadium was a familiar place for both East St. Louis and Chicago Mt. Carmel. It's the Caravan which have the happier memories today.

The Caravan appeared here in the 1986 Class 6A title game. Last year it was East Side's turn, as the Flyers beat Mt. Carmel in the 1987 semifinals to advance to the title game, where they lost 26-6 to Arlington Heights Hersey.

Mt. Carmel didn't forget their loss to the Flyers as they ended the Flyers' bid for a perfect season with a 21-7 win over the Flyers (13-1) on Saturday to capture the Illinois Class 6A championship. For the second consecutive year, the Flyers fell one victory short of a perfect season and their fifth state championship.

"Maybe we think this is going to be easy when we get here," said Flyer coach Bob Shannon. "Getting here was the hurdle in the past, but this seems to be the hurdle now."

Mt. Carmel came to play and took it to the Flyers with a bruising ground game that gained 309 yards. The game took the shape of a stiff defensive battle in the first quarter as both offenses appeared out of sync. Mt. Carmel got its offense going in the second quarter, though, as the Caravan drove 87 yards in 15 plays to take the lead.

The drive was capped by quarterback Dan Miller's 1-yard sneak which made it 7-0.

PHIL WAHL of the Cougars dunks over Harding's Keith Hubbard during Saturday's championship game of the Cougar Classic in Edwardsville.

Cougars triumph in own tourney

By Al Barnes
Correspondent

EDWARDSVILLE — Harding University fought the Cougars on even terms for most of the night, but SIUE emerged with an 80-76 victory Saturday in the championship game of the Cougar Classic at Vadalabene Gym.

The title game turned out to be a personal duel between SIUE's Odell Tidwell and Harding's Dave James. Tidwell edged Jones 27-26 for top scoring honors. Tidwell, a senior from Rockford, made 12 of 15 field goal attempts while James made 10 of 14.

Tidwell was joined in double figures by Edgar Wilson (21 points), Phil Wahl (13) and Frankie Williams (10). Corey Camper (18) and Barry Thames (14) joined James in double figures for Harding.

In jumping off to a 2-1 start, the Cougars have proven to be poor shots from the free throw line. They made only 10 of 23 free throws in Saturday's game. Williams led the Cougars with six assists while Tidwell led the way with nine rebounds.

Edgar Wilson of the Cougars was named the tournament's most valuable player. He had 43 points in two games. Tim Brown, who had 22 points in Friday's 81-71 win over Lincoln, was the only other Cougar player selected to the all-tournament team. He was joined by Lincoln's Terrance Hamilton (35 points in two games), Lincoln's (41 points); Richard Delk of Wisconsin-Parkside and Harding's Camper.

Lincoln beat Wisconsin-Parkside 81-74 for third place. Harding had beaten Parkside 86-63 in Friday's first game.

The Cougars played Knox College on Monday and will host Northeast Missouri on Saturday.

Girls softball policy adopted

The Granite City Park District Board of Commissioners recently adopted the following policy for the girls softball program.

1) All players will be declared free agents. Players will have the option of playing with their previous team or they may sign another team's roster for the 1989 season.

2) Players will be eligible to play in a division directly above their age group. For example, a girl who played in the Bantam Division this year and is eligible for the Bantam Division next year will be able to move up to play in the Midget Divisions.

For further clarification, contact Wake Barber at the park office, 877-3059.

GC park volleyball league has openings

The Granite City Park District has openings in its Women's Recreational Volleyball League.

League games will be played on Wednesday nights at the Lincoln Place Community Center. Entry fee for the league is $75 per team, with a non-resident fee of $17.50 per player.

For further information, contact the Wilson Park Office at 877-3059.

Eubanks still an athletic wonder

Sports Of All Sorts

By Al Barnes

George Eubanks, known mostly for his football exploits at Granite City High School, in the 1930s, can do a little golfing as well.

Eubanks is in the Granite City Sports Hall of Fame not only for his heroics on the gridiron, where his fantastic punt returns set records for the Warriors, but also as an outstanding track star in the dashes, the broad jump and the relays.

There are many who rank Eubanks right along with the legendary Steve Galauer, believed by many to have had a great shot at the U.S. Olympic team in 1936 before he was injured in a football game.

It's rare to see Eubanks when he isn't smiling. But he's had more than a normal reason to be jolly recently. He scored a hole-in-one at the Rolling Hilss Golf Course in Godfrey on the 115-yard par 3 sixth hole. It's a nine-hole course, and Eubanks and his wife, Delores, play the layout an average of six times a year.

He used a nine-iron on this particular day and "hit the ball real good. It felt just right."

But the funny thing was he couldn't see the green he was aiming at. So imagine his chagrin when he walked up to the green and couldn't see his orange ball. There's a sand trap behind the green and he naturally thought the ball had landed there. Worst of all, there was his wife's ball not too far from the hole.

What are the odds against a hole-in-one? I saw Paul Sodko, a pretty fair golfer in his own right, and asked him.

"Well, I don't know for sure," he said. "But Lloyds of London charged our group $225 to insure us during our recent money raiser for the Granite City YMCA against a golfer scoring a hole-in-one and winning a $15,000 car we were offering."

Sodko, by the way, who manages the Madison County Federal Savings and Loan, came within two inches of a hole-in-one at Arlington this summer.

CCA NEWSLETTER

ASSISTANT CCA DIRECTOR
VALERIE J. COOK

CCA DIRECTOR
VERN HEUCHERT

Hi CCAer's

Our CCA campaign is coming along just GREAT! Keep up the good work and when you shop make sure you patronize all our sponsors. Let them know who you are, and that you are a member of the CCA team so that you will receive the proper amount of bonus points. They all will be glad to meet you!

We did not have a turn-in on Monday, November 21st, because of the holiday week. Our next turn-in for Large Clubs is December 5th, and Small Clubs, December 12th. The hours are from 9am to 1pm and then again from 5pm to 7pm, at WRYT Radio Station #9 Cougar Dr. in Edwardsville. Remember we choose one chairperson each week for the turn-ins, and this will be awarded on neatness and accuracy of your tally sheets.

I would like to remind you to seek the help of your friends, family and neighbors to assist your club or organization in receiving and collecting points. If you should need additional Buyer's Guides please let us know, we do have some extra books available.

We have some additional BONUS POINTS from our sponsors that we would like to pass on to you!

Valerie and I hope that all of you had a nice Thanksgiving this past week and we are looking forward to seeing you at the turn-in dates. Good collecting, remember enthusiasm generate enthusiasm.

•Flyers

to them on the ground and we were able to do it today," said Mt. Carmel coach Frank Lenti

The Caravan not only pounded out the yardage against East Side, but they got some big plays as well. It became 14-0 on their next possession as halfback Nairobi Allen zipped around left end for a 53-yard touchdown with 6:41 left in the half.

Allen shredded the Flyer defense as he ran for 193 yards on 12 carries while scoring two touchdowns.

"He had a good day, but their offensive line really gets the credit for what he did today," said Shannon.

East Side finally got its offense rolling late in the half when Vernon Powell hit Cecil Hawkins for an 18-yard touchdown strike to make it 14-7 at halftime.

The Flyers appeared on the way toward tying up the game when they drove from their 22 to the Mt. Carmel 21 midway through the third quarter. But the drive stalled when Powell failed to connect with Hawkins on third and fourth down passes.

Mt. Carmel bounced back from the defensive stand and used only three plays to score on another big play. On first down from his own 38, Allen exploded up the middle on a dive play for a 62-yard touchdown run that broke the Flyers' spirit.

"Allen's last touchdown in the third quarter kind of broke our backs," Shannon said.

The Flyers got the ball back twice in the final period, but were never able to get past mid-field as the Caravan defense neutralized the East Side attack.

The championship victory for Mt. Carmel was their first ever over the Flyers.

"There was no way we were going to lose to East St. Louis today and the kids and assistant coaches deserve all the credit," Lenti said.

For Shannon, there was disappointment but no bitterness over the loss.

"We were outplayed from beginning to end, but I don't feel as bad as last year," Shannon said. "We'll go back and hit it hard. Don't be surprised if you see us again next year."

The Flyers were held to 268 yards of total offense. Powell passed for 166 yards, but the Flyers were held to 102 rushing yards. Jerry Greer led the team with 50 yards on 10 carries. Dwayne Rose led the defense with 12 tackles.

•Wrestle

Scott Wilson split time at 130. Bazzell, Wilson and freshman Chris Hoffstot each wrestled once at 135. Freshman Doug Norton wrestled at 140, getting a pin of Carbondale's Steve Brock at 4:25. Senior William Moss stepped in for Dale Hutson at 275.

"We will have a good week of practice and hope for better results this week," said Garland.

That won't be easy. The Warriors travel to Roxana on Friday for a dual meet against the always-tough Shells. Then it's off to Peoria for a Saturday morning meet with the host school, Bloomington and Pekin.

said. "But I really think that if we play like we did tonight, we're going to be able to beat some people this year."

NOTES: Jacksonville won all four of its games to win its own tournament for the sixth straight year and the 12th time in 25 tries. The Crimson also tied for first one year. Jacksonville, coached by former Edwardsville coach Mel Roustio, has a 53-21 record in tournament play over the years. The Crimson, who advanced to the Class AA supersectionals last year with a 25-4 record, will play at Granite City on Dec. 23. They were playing for the first time in four years without two-time Illinois scoring champion Andy Kaufmann, now a freshman at the University of Illinois.

Chicago St. Gregory lost all four of its games at the tournament. The Warriors, East St. Louis and Sparta all finished 2-2.

Bills have plenty of size, depth

ST. LOUIS — If Rich Grawer has his way, the St. Louis University basketball team will be coming at opponents in super 3-D this season. The buzz words for Billikens basketball are height and depth.

Those words weren't tossed about much last year when the Bills struggled to a 14-14 season and were upset by Detroit in the first round of the Midwestern Collegiate Conference tournament after going 25-10 and gaining a National Invitational Tournament bid the previous year. Last year's Bills were scarce on skyscrapers, with Anthony Bonner and seldom-used Dale Renken topping off the team at 6-8 each.

SLU also lacked depth, losing forward Jeff Ford when he transferred to Southwest Missouri State after one semester and getting down to nine players at times. Last season's Billikens mainly had to run on the power of guard Monroe Douglass, forward Roland Gray and forward Bonner.

Of course, that triumvirate will loom large again this season. Seniors Douglass and Gray, who averaged 15.9 and 14.6 points a game, respectively, last season, were tabbed preseason honorable mention All-Americans by Street & Smith's magazine. Both are expected to break Harry Rogers' school scoring mark of 1,491 points this season. Bonner, the board-crashing junior from Vashon High School, has led the Billikens in rebounding two years in a row. Grawer acknowledges winning efforts from the trio are essential, but a new supporting cast also must excel for the club to succeed.

"We know what Douglass, Gray and Bonner can do," Grawer said. "We have to see what the newcomers can do."

Eight new faces figure to give the Bills added size, depth and versatility. The added height is a major consideration, with six players standing at least 6-8.

Last year the Bills lacked a true center and Bonner, a natural power forward, had to play the post. The additions of 6-9 Mike Ivester and 6-10 Travis Tadysak allow Bonner to move back to the power spot. Ivester is a transfer from Kirkwood (Iowa) Community Col lege, where he averaged 17.2 points and 9.3 rebounds last sea son. Ivester was the starting cen ter in the Bills' exhibition game with the Nosso Clube team from Brazil last Friday and has the inside track on the pivot job. Tadysak is one of three Billikens — including new assistant coach Jackson Wheeler — from Highland Community College in Kansas. Tadysak also could see time at center.

Two other newcomers, freshman Vincent "Vinnie" Smith and junior college transfer Tony Manuel, have turned heads in pre-season scrimmages and should provide the Bills maneuverability they haven't had in recent years.

Manuel, a 6-9 junior swingman who teamed with Tadysak at Highland, was picked by The Sporting News as the MCC newcomer of the year. He averaged nine rebounds a game last year at Highland, but his 28-point scoring average and willingness to take a three-point shot indicate a valuable all-around player. His height makes him a good inside player, but he can also take an outside forward spot or play off-guard.

"That's what they need me to do," Manuel said. "Play two or three spots and give some versatility."

Smith, who stands 6-3, also can swing between the guard spots. The Central (Little Rock, Ark.) High School graduate is a rarity, someone who can play the point well and score from outside. When Douglass is out of the game, Smith can take his spot with junior returnee Charles Newberry running the offense.

It's important to note that Smith and, to a lesser extent Manuel, can hit three-pointers. Douglass has been SLU's only real threat from beyond the arc.

Senior Todd Starks, a transfer from Illinois State, will become eligible at the Chaminade Christmas Tournament in Hawaii. Smith, Starks and Newberry are being counted on to settle the point slot that caused some problems last season.

While not technically a newcomer, junior off-guard Anthony Jones could add to the new mixture. Jones, Bonner's teammate at Vashon, was a Proposition 48 casualty two years ago as a freshman and played sparingly last year. The new personnel means Grawer will have to find the right chemistry, but the hum around the SLU camp is that the more lineup possibilities there are, the more chances exist to come up with the right combination.

"We have to use our versatility," Grawer said. "We want to get Tony (Manuel) playing inside and outside and our new players help ing out the people we have with their versatility."

The Bills opened their season with an impressive win over Coppin State of Baltimore, Md.
